Ice-Laden Winds Pound Ohio, Eastern U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Spring sprung a leak in Ohio Friday.
Rain, sleet and snow totaling up to an inch and a half of water caused minor flooding and some evacuations in several areas of the state.
Then temperatures dropped, and the resulting ice snapped tree branches and power and telephone lines and made driving hazardous.
Temperatures plunged to record lows this morning. Toledo shattered a 21-degree record set in 1961 as the temperature there dropped to 12 above zero.

Record lows were also reported in Findlay and Akron-Canton with 14 degrees; Mansfield, Dayton and Youngstown with 15, and Columbus with 19. Previous records were mostly in the low to mid 20s. Some dated back to 1886.
Record lows were also set Friday night in Dayton, Youngstown, Akron-Canton and Cincinnati as temperatures fell into the teens and 20s.

Farmers in southwestern Ohio burned smudge pots to protect blooming fruit trees.
High winds caused problems in other areas.
About 10 persons were evacuated from low-lying areas around Indian Lake in Logan County as winds up to 40 miles an hour pushed lake waters around shore homes. They were cared for in a local school by the Red Cross.
Waves measuring up to 20 feet battered the southern shoreline of Lake Erie. The National Weather Service said the lake was three to six feet above the low water mark.

Some streets in the Point were battered by winds and waves. Some people left their homes voluntarily.
Lakeshore homes at Reno Beach east of Toledo and White's Landing near Sandusky Place section of Toledo were closed because of high water.
Flooding also was reported at Catawba Island, a small peninsula that juts into Lake Erie near Port Clinton.

Snow fell across northern Ohio, accumulating to as much as three inches in some areas.
Columbus had freezing rain, Zanesville and Marietta, ice pellets, and Dayton, sleet.
A flood watch was in effect overnight along the banks of the Little Miami River in Warren, Clermont and Hamilton counties.
Police said the reservoir lake at Winton Woods Park in northern Hamilton County was rising at the rate of eight inches per hour.

A late-season outbreak of arctic cold sent a freezing chill as far south as the Virginias and Texas today after triggering violent thunderstorms and tornadoes through Tennessee and Georgia.
A 50-mile-wide band of thunderstorms swept through Tennessee Friday, trailing a number of tornadoes, upsetting mobile homes and tearing the roofs off small buildings.
Two persons were believed drowned on Kentucky Lake near Paris, Tenn. Numerous injuries were reported through the state.

In Georgia, several funnel clouds were sighted in northeast Atlanta, while other tornadoes touched down in Macon and Decatur. No injuries were reported, but the twister in Macon caused some property damage. A violent thunderstorm with hail and heavy winds knocked out the radar at the weather station in Decatur late Friday.
Another tornado was reported near Batesville, Miss.

As the cold swept eastward into New England, southeastern Pennsylvania received a rare April snowstorm, followed by pelting hail.
Intermittent snow and sleet fell from Ohio and Maryland to western Long Island.
Showers and locally heavy thunderstorms peppered northern Mississippi, Tennessee, Virginia and northern North Carolina, with rain and occasional hail.

Jackson, Humphrey Stump Ohio For Primary Votes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Democratic presidential contender Henry Jackson opened his Ohio primary campaign Friday by declaring in Cleveland and Columbus he is the candidate most acceptable to the voters.
The Washington Senator said he is a prime choice for the Democratic nomination because of his middle-of-the-road stance.
Following Jackson into Ohio was Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota with scheduled visits in Dayton tonight and Columbus Sunday.

In the state to stump for Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine was Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich.
Jackson said the party must select someone from the "progressive center" in order to beat President Nixon in the fall election.
He said he sees the party polarizing between Alabama Gov. George Wallace on the right and Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota on the left. "I am firmly planted there in the middle," he said.
Jackson predicted he would get the votes of the "businessman, the worker and those who are angry" in the May 2 primary.

He criticized Humphrey and Muskie for being "in and out—you really don't know where."
Muskie, he said, has "so many advisors it's hard for him to take a stand."
Jackson said Muskie and McGovern have been pocketing thousands of dollars in speaking fees for two years while he has not. He said Muskie had taken in some $120,000 in speaking fee honoraria and McGovern $80,000.
"Scoop Jackson has given away every bit of income other than his salary," Humphrey was to arrive in Dayton late tonight for a possible appearance at a rally sponsored by Humphrey delegates and alternates in that area. He will meet with newsmen and participate in a youth forum Sunday morning.
Humphrey then will go to Columbus for a noon appearance at a statewide conference of the Ohio State Council of Machinists. Later in the afternoon he will speak at a gathering on the Ohio State University campus.
Hart addressed a gathering of Muskie supporters in Dayton Friday night and was to meet with Gov. John Gilligan in Columbus today and make an appearance at Ohio State University.

Milk-Heart Disease Link Dispute Revived By Medic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Milk may be good for your bones but bad for your heart, a doctor suggested Friday as an old argument flared anew.
Dr. Forrest H. Adams told an American Heart Association symposium that the butterfat content of whole milk may present a danger of heart disease to people who drink a lot of it.
"If we're going to continue to use milk, it should be skim milk," said Adams, a pediatrician from the University of California at Los Angeles.
Dr. David Boyd of Boston, president of the American College of Chest Physicians, agreed with Adams that the widespread use of whole milk beyond infancy poses a threat.
The danger is more marked in the United States, they said, because milk is more widely used here than in most other countries.

But Dr. Michael DeBakey, the noted Texas heart surgeon, countered, "The evidence is not clear that milk, for example, or foods that have high-fat content are causes of atherosclerosis."
That's the medical name for what happens when fatty deposits form sort of a sludge in the arteries. It's a leading cause of heart disease.
"We do know from statistical studies," DeBakey added, "that (high-fat foods) seem to contribute to atherosclerosis. But it's one thing to say they may contribute and another thing to say they cause the disease. We do not know the cause."
Because of that, he said, "we are not prepared to legislate against certain kinds of food."
Adams did not say he thinks milk is a direct cause of heart disease, but said low-fat foods should be stressed instead.

Muskie May Skip Indiana Election

By ROBERT L. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer
Maine Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, his front-running status among Democratic presidential aspirants demolished, may skip the May 2 Indiana primary, his office says.
A Muskie spokesman said Friday a final decision on the Indiana primary will be made over the weekend, but in the meantime Muskie supporters in Indianapolis have been told not to spend any more money.
Muskie, who finished fourth in both Florida and Wisconsin, has had some financial problems. His workers recently agreed to go without pay for about two weeks until last Tuesday's Wisconsin election was over.
Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, meanwhile, let it be known Friday that he will concentrate on the Ohio contest on May 2, relegating Indiana's race, where he is also entered, to second place.

Many believe such a de-emphasis by Humphrey, coupled with a Muskie decision to skip the Indiana race, would leave the field wide open for Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who finished second in Wisconsin and is gunning for a first-place finish in a northern state. He won the Florida primary March 14.
Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, winner of Tuesday's Wisconsin race, spent Friday at home prior to a campaign swing through Massachusetts starting next Wednesday. Massachusetts, along with Pennsylvania, will host the next primaries April 25.

Wallace, meanwhile, said in Baltimore that he will bypass the Pennsylvania primary because he doesn't have the financing to go into every state and run a full campaign. Wallace said he didn't want the same thing to happen to him that did to Muskie. He said

Muskie spread himself too thin.
Another Democrat, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, campaigned Friday in Cleveland and Columbus, Ohio, where he said the Democratic party "is polarizing between the two Georges." Jackson has been saying his middle-of-the-road stance has the best chance of success.
Polarization was also touched on Friday by AFL-CIO President George Meany who said in Washington the Democratic candidates were dividing their party, thus making it apparent Nixon would be re-elected.
"If I were forced to make a bet now," he said after a National Press Club speech, "I'd bet Nixon will win."

Armed Man Jumps With $500,000

PROVO, Utah (AP) — A manhunt focused on this central Utah city today for a young hijacker who leaped from a United Air Lines 727 jetliner Friday night with $500,000 ransom after forcing a zigzag flight across the West.
Aerial flares lighted early morning skies over nearby Utah Lake as hundreds of lawmen started a search for the armed man.
This was the seventh time in just under five months that parachutes and ransom figured in airline piracy.
The nine-hour odyssey began over the Rocky Mountains almost 30 minutes after the plane left Denver at 2:36 p.m. MST when a mustachioed passenger wearing mirrored sunglasses, a pink shirt and a blue pinstripe suit ordered the Los Angeles-bound plane diverted to San Francisco.
Mrs. Dick McLennan of Denver, who sat next to the hijacker, said she saw no weapon but did see the man pass notes to the captain.
A CBS newsmen on the plane, Jim Kilpatrick, said, "The notes that were passed back and forth were all pre-written."
Sandy Wilkinson, a 25-year-old off-duty UAL stewardess on the flight, said she did not see any weapons either but was told the hijacker had a hand grenade and pistol.
One passenger said the hijacker pulled a pistol.
The pilot said the hijacker told him he had "two hand guns, plastic explosives and hand grenades," but he saw only a pistol.
He said the hijacking was "a very well executed plan."

Lakes Clean-Up Pact May Cost U.S. $12 Billion

Street Salting Handled By Single Truck

Worker Walkoff Leaves 3 Men During Sleet Storm

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. share of the Great Lakes clean-up agreement President Nixon will sign next week in Canada could cost as much as $12 billion, government officials say.
Previous estimates of $2 billion are far too low, the sources indicate, and wouldn't even meet the U.S. obligations for the first year of the three-year construction program.
The U.S. total includes the cost to states and cities bordering the Great Lakes. The officials would not disclose the Canadian share but indicated it would be considerably less.
"We're the ones who have put the dirt in so we're the ones who have to pay to clean them up," one source said.
According to officials, the agreement, which has been under sometimes fitful negotiation since 1964, deals primarily with construction of sewage treatment plants.
Details of the pact have not been made public. For that matter, there has been no official acknowledgment that the agreement has been reached.
But officials in Ottawa and Washington say privately President Nixon and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau will sign the accord just before the American chief executive ends a three-day visit to Ottawa a week from today.

Extortion Arrests Made

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — FBI agents have arrested a Hayward man and woman in a $250,000 airplane bomb extortion plot last month against United Air Lines.
An FBI spokesman said agents arrested Alton Fain, 47, and Judith Wikstrom, also known as Judith Fain, 27, here Friday after a telephone caller negotiated with federal authorities to deposit a parcel containing $250,000 at a Hayward location.
Arrests followed Miss Wikstrom's attempt to retrieve the package, officers said. Both were charged with conspiracy to extort funds under threat of placing bombs on planes.
Negotiations for payment of the extortion money, officials said, had been carried on since last March 7 at Seattle aboard a United flight from San Francisco.
The extortionist threatened to place bombs aboard two other flights unless the money was paid, authorities added.

Viet War Tempo Rises; U.S. Boosts Air, Naval Power

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist command's offensive slowed in some sectors of South Vietnam today, but gathered steam in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon, where rocket, mortar and small ground assaults nearly doubled.
The United States, meanwhile, rushed more planes and ships to Indochina to join a bombing campaign against military targets in North Vietnam.
Most of the Communist ground attacks were aimed at regional and local force militia outposts which form a defensive perimeter around villages and hamlets.
Field sources said initial reports indicated that casualties were not high, but that many troops were "missing." This indicated that many of the militiamen may have fled, been abducted or willingly accompanied the enemy.

To the north of Saigon, government defenders reportedly were still holding at the besieged provincial capital of An Loc, 60 miles above the capital on Highway 13.
A brigade of some 2,500 South Vietnamese paratroopers, who form the elite guard for the presidential palace in Saigon, moved by truck into Lai Khe, 25 miles north of Saigon, and started advancing on foot toward An Loc.
The redeployment of the brigade to relieve the hard-pressed government forces along Highway 13 depleted Saigon of its reserve forces. Two other brigades of paratroopers from the strategic reserves are fighting in the central highlands.

Maj. Tran Ai Quoc, district chief of Chon Thanh district town, 15 miles south of An Loc, said: "We are under heavy enemy pressure and we are abandoning some of our outposts to strengthen our position. Right outside here, enemy are all along Route 13 to An Loc."
Officials said the deployment of more U.S. planes and ships to Indochina was aimed at forcing Hanoi to halt its offensive and negotiate peace.

The dispatch of two U.S. Marine F4 Phantom fighter squadrons to Da Nang air base turned back the clock. The 36 supersonic jets are from the 1st Marine Air Wing, which withdrew from South Vietnam in May 1971 as part of President Nixon's disengagement of American forces.
With other air and naval reinforcements here or en route, the American aerial counter-offensive shaped up as a full-scale resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam.
Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird stopped just short of calling it that when he told a

Washington news conference that American air attacks will continue against North Vietnam until Hanoi pulls its troops back across the demilitarized zone and shows a willingness to negotiate peace.
Official sources here said the raids over the north would become more intense in the future, but overcast skies curtailed the third day of strikes today.
These sources said preliminary analysis shows the raids over the north are inflicting heavy damage on highways, bridges, surface-to-air missile sites and anti-aircraft artillery batteries.
"It looks good," said one source. "We are experiencing a great deal of success."

The U.S. command so far has not publicly assessed the bombing damage and has released only scant details on the strikes.
Two Navy A7 fighter-bombers were shot down by surface-to-air missiles in the first day of the raids Thursday. This raised to nine the number of aircraft reported lost on both sides of the DMZ by the U.S. command since the enemy offensive was launched March 30. More than a score of crewmen have been killed or are missing.
Meanwhile, the U.S. 7th Fleet sent its flagship, the guided (Continued on Page 10) in the United States, they said, because milk is more widely used here than in most other countries.

But Dr. Michael DeBakey, the noted Texas heart surgeon, countered, "The evidence is not clear that milk, for example, or foods that have high-fat content are causes of atherosclerosis."

That's the medical name for what happens when fatty deposits form sort of a sludge in the arteries. It's a leading cause of heart disease.

"We do know from statistical studies," DeBakey added, "that (high-fat foods) seem to contribute to atherosclerosis. But it's one thing to say they may contribute and another thing to say they cause the disease. We do not know the cause."

Because of that, he said, "we are not prepared to legislate against certain kinds of food."

Adams did not say he thinks milk is a direct cause of heart disease, but said low-fat foods should be stressed instead.

Humphrey was to arrive in Dayton late tonight for a possible appearance at a rally sponsored by Humphrey delegates and alternates in that area. He will meet with newsmen and participate in a youth forum Sunday morning.

Humphrey then will go to Columbus for a noon appearance at a statewide conference of the Ohio State Council of Machineists. Later in the afternoon he will speak at a gathering on the Ohio State University campus.

Hart addressed a gathering of Muskie supporters in Dayton Friday night and was to meet with Gov. John Gilligan in Columbus today and make an appearance at Ohio State University.

"We do know from statistical studies," DeBakey added, "that (high-fat foods) seem to contribute to atherosclerosis. But it's one thing to say they may contribute and another thing to say they cause the disease. We do not know the cause."

Street Salting Handled By Single Truck

Worker Walkoff Leaves 3 Men During Sleet Storm

Only the two remaining city service employees and one welfare worker staffed the service department Friday when Roundtown streets became covered with sleet.

The force was depleted when five city workers staged a walkoff March 27 in protest of wages. Department head Woody Jones informed the five that their action meant the termination of their jobs with the city.

Jones reported today that only one salt truck was sent out Friday afternoon to clear the main thoroughfares. Normally two are sent out, but the staffing problem prompted the cut. The truck was out until 5:30 or 6 p.m., he noted, "but there wasn't enough traffic to help the salt work and break up the sleet."

The reduced traffic and drop in temperature produced a slick, icy sheet on side streets all over town, but the service director indicated that side streets are not routinely salted, even with available manpower. The only attention they receive in bad weather is when extremely heavy snowfall prompts the service of the snowplow, he said.

Hiring to fill the five vacancies will begin next week, Jones indicated. Sixty men have filed applications for the jobs.

Lakes Clean-Up Pact May Cost U.S. $12 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. share of the Great Lakes clean-up agreement President Nixon will sign next week in Canada could cost as much as $12 billion, government officials say.

Previous estimates of $2 billion are far too low, the sources indicate, and wouldn't even meet the U.S. obligations for the first year of the three-year construction program.

The U.S. total includes the cost to states and cities bordering the Great Lakes. The officials would not disclose the Canadian share but indicated it would be considerably less.

"We're the ones who have put the dirt in so we're the ones who have to pay to clean them up," one source said.

According to officials, the agreement, which has been under sometimes fitful negotiation since 1964, deals primarily with construction of sewage treatment plants.

Details of the pact have not been made public. For that matter, there has been no official acknowledgement that the agreement has been reached.

But officials in Ottawa and Washington say privately President Nixon and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau will sign the accord just before the American chief executive ends a three-day visit to Ottawa a week from today.

Greenwich Newspaper Reported Purchased

NORWALK, Ohio (AP) — The 100-year-old Greenwich Enterprise-Review, a weekly newspaper serving 1,462 residents of Greenwich in Huron County, has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Smith of North Fairfield.

The paper had been owned less than a year by Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hintz Jr.

Extortion Arrests Made

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — FBI agents have arrested a Hayward man and woman in a $250,000 airplane bomb extortion plot last month against United Air Lines.

An FBI spokesman said agents arrested Alton Fain, 47, and Judith Wikstrom, also known as Judith Fain, 27, here Friday after a telephone caller negotiated with federal authorities to deposit a parcel containing $250,000 at a Hayward location.

Arrests followed Miss Wikstrom's attempt to retrieve the package, officers said. Both were charged with conspiracy to extort funds under threat of placing bombs on planes.

Negotiations for payment of the extortion money, officials said, had been carried on since luggage containing explosives was found March 7 at Seattle aboard a United flight from San Francisco.

The extortionist threatened to place bombs aboard two other flights unless the money was paid, authorities added.

Viet War Tempo Rises; U.S. Boosts Air, Naval Power

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist command's offensive slowed in some sectors of South Vietnam today, but gathered steam in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon, where rocket, mortar and small ground assaults nearly doubled.

The United States, meanwhile, rushed more planes and ships to Indochina to join a bombing campaign against military targets in North Vietnam.

Most of the Communist ground attacks were aimed at regional and local force militia outposts which form a defensive perimeter around villages and hamlets.

Field sources said initial reports indicated that casualties were not high, but that many troops were "missing." This indicated that many of the militiamen may have fled, been abducted or willingly accompanied the enemy.

To the north of Saigon, government defenders reportedly were still holding at the besieged provincial capital of An Loc, 60 miles above the capital on Highway 13.

A brigade of some 2,500 South Vietnamese paratroopers, who form the elite guard for the presidential palace in Saigon, moved by truck into Lai Khe, 25 miles north of Saigon, and started advancing on foot toward An Loc.

The redeployment of the brigade to relieve the hard-pressed government forces along Highway 13 depleted Saigon of its reserve forces. Two other brigades of paratroopers from the strategic reserves are fighting in the central highlands.

Maj. Tran Ai Quoc, district chief of Chon Thanh district town, 15 miles south of An Loc, said: "We are under heavy enemy pressure and we are abandoning some of our outposts to strengthen our position. Right outside here, enemy are all along Route 13 to An Loc."

Officials said the deployment of more U.S. planes and ships to Indochina was aimed at forcing Hanoi to halt its offensive and negotiate peace.

The dispatch of two U.S. Marine F4 Phantom fighter squadrons to Da Nang air base turned back the clock. The 36 supersonic jets are from the 1st Marine Air Wing, which withdrew from South Vietnam in May 1971 as part of President Nixon's disengagement of American forces.

With other air and naval reinforcements here or en route, the American aerial counter-offensive shaped up as a full-scale resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird stopped just short of calling it that when he told a

Washington news conference that American air attacks will continue against North Vietnam until Hanoi pulls its troops back across the demilitarized zone and shows a willingness to negotiate peace.

Official sources here said the raids over the north would become more intense in the future, but overcast skies curtailed the third day of strikes today.

These sources said preliminary analysis shows the raids over the north are inflicting heavy damage on highways, bridges, surface-to-air missile sites and anti-aircraft artillery batteries.

"It looks good," said one

source. "We are experiencing a great deal of success."

The U.S. command so far has not publicly assessed the bombing damage and has released only scant details on the strikes.

Two Navy A7 fighter-bombers were shot down by surface-to-air missiles in the first day of the raids Thursday. This raised to nine the number of aircraft reported lost on both sides of the DMZ by the U.S. command since the enemy offensive was launched March 30. More than a score of crewmen have been killed or are missing.

Meanwhile, the U.S. 7th Fleet sent its flagship, the guided

Tested Bull Sale Slated

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

The once-a-year sale of bulls from the Ohio Bull Testing Program is slated for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Ohio Expositions Center. It's an excellent opportunity for purebred and commercial cattle breeders to buy Ohio Certified Performance bulls, according to W. W. Wharton, Extension Animal Science Specialist at the Ohio State University.

About 89 bulls of seven breeds are expected to complete the 140-day testing program which ends April 3 and 4. They have been kept under common environmental conditions for evaluating rate of gain, soundness, muscling, breed character and condition. Anyone wishing to see the bulls may view them at the test site, under the viaduct at the Expositions Center.

For bulls to be accepted in the sale, they must have gains of at least 2.25 pounds per day while on test, a lifetime gain of 2 pounds per day or more, and a final type score of 13 (middle choice) or better.

A few Ohio Certified Superior Performance Bulls will also be offered. These are bulls which have gained 3 or more pounds a day while on test with a lifetime gain of 2.5 pounds per day and a type score of 14.

All traits (breed and sex character, skeletal structure, development and soundness, muscling and condition) will be weighted and a final type and index for each bull will be computed before sale time.

on parliamentary procedure. A game called "Articles we Have" was played for recreation.

Refreshments were served by Janet Wolford and Vanessa Mills. The next meeting will be April 12, at 3:30 p.m., at Logan Elm High School.

The club held a meeting on March 26, at the home of Cindy Woodruff. Members discussed the feeding and taking care of your horse. Refreshments were served by Cindy Woodruff.

The next meeting will be April 26, at 7:30 p.m., at the home of Dawn Cline.

Buttons and Bowls Jr.
By Debbie Calton
Buttons and Bowls Jr. 4-H Club held their meeting March 27th at Washington Twp. School. Demonstrations were given by Carol Kraft, Susan Hoffman and Brenda Bolender. The demonstrations consisted of selecting patterns, equipment for sewing basket and how to place patterns on material.

During the business meeting the Constitution was discussed and the selection of winners of the 4-H book cover. Cary Ater received first place, Cindy Ater second, and Jackie Cave third place.

The Officers and Advisors meeting was held April 4th at Jackson School.

Joanna Duvol provided entertainment for the members.

Refreshments were served by Sandy and Sheila Carter, Cheryl Hawkins and Nancy Trax.

The next meeting will be 7 p.m. April 10 at Washington Twp. School.

Fertilize Alfalfa For High Yields

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Few crops grown in Ohio offer more potential nutrient value than alfalfa; yet, no other crop has been so neglected, claims R. Hunter Follett, Extension Agronomist at the Ohio State University.

"Good farmers get up to six and eight tons of alfalfa per acre," Follett notes, "and yields of 10 tons are possible. In fact, last year, agronomists produced over 10 tons of alfalfa per acre on research plots near Columbus."

If you want to shoot at these higher yields, the first step is to treat the alfalfa like an important "cash crop" as you would treat corn.

The second step is to select a soil with adequate drainage. Root development, nutrient uptake, nitrogen fixation and winter survival depend on well-drained soil.

STEP three is to determine the soil nutrient levels by having the soil tested. Soil pH, lime requirements and existing levels of phosphorus and potassium can be determined by analyzing the soil in a laboratory.

Soil acidity is an old problem in growing alfalfa, so recent research in Ohio shows that step four is to correct the soil pH-zone to a pH of 7 on all soils where the soil below the plow-zone is acid. If possible, apply lime and incorporate it within the plow-zone at least six months prior to seeding alfalfa.

Step five is to make the necessary fertilizer applications. Alfalfa is a heavy user of phosphorus and potassium. The plants contain about 3 per cent phosphorus and 3 to 4 per cent potassium on a dry matter basis. To maintain alfalfa levels, apply 14 pounds P2O5 and 50 pounds K2O for each ton of alfalfa removed annually.

Ten tons of alfalfa will contain about 140 pounds of P2O5 and 500 pounds of K2O.

Alfalfa will respond to higher soil test levels of phosphorus and potassium than many other agronomic crops. Research indicates that the soil level of phosphorus should approach 90

(Bray P1 test) and the potassium level 300, in order for alfalfa to express fully its genetic potential. Corrective application of phosphorus and potassium should be added and incorporated prior to seeding. Annual soil tests will assist in keeping a constant reading of oil nutrient levels.

You may apply phosphate and potash any time during the year; however, application following the first cutting and/or during the fall season is preferred. The time of application is not critical. Single applications to last a year are possible and can save cost and labor.

Food Stamp Rule On Household Is Suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture has suspended a rule requiring that food-stamp recipients in a household be related.

The instructions sent to state welfare agencies Friday carried out a temporary restraining order issued Thursday by U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith Jr. of Washington, D.C.

The court order came as a result of a lawsuit filed by the Center on Social Welfare Policy and Law of New York on behalf of several low-income households.

The lawsuit seeks to strike down a rule written into food-stamps law last year by Congress aimed at preventing non-related communal groups from participating in the food program.

Whenever you fertilize, make sure you provide enough for top yields. Some soils can stand "mining" for a while. Other soils do not have a reserve, and attempts to increase alfalfa yields through good management practices, but with too little fertilizer, are doomed to failure.

Remember, with top management you may need only half the acres. This means dollars in your pocket to produce 80 tons on 10 acres rather than 80 tons on 20 acres.

What is a deekle ... a deekle chuck, that is? What is a frankie? You may know about the Delmonico rib steak, or rib eye — and a top chuck fillet, a chuck petite, or chuck tenders. If you're not confused, you are a very sophisticated shopper!

Just a few names for steak are: sirloin tip, sirloin tip round steak boneless, jiffy steak, minute steak, chicken steak, family steak, breakfast steak, blade steak and chuck 7 - bone steak.

"Store names" for cuts of meat — especially beef — have proliferated and grown more colorful until sometimes it is difficult to identify what cut is being talked about.

Animals are changing. Now they're either larger or smaller, whichever is desired, and they're leaner and their meat more palatable. They are raised that way. But — the anatomy of the carcass remains basically the same. When cut for retail purposes by either of two alternate methods, there are 14 or 18 cuts. Then, how can there be so many different kinds of roasts and so many different kinds of steak advertised in ads by the retail grocer? How can consumers determine what cuts of meat they are really buying at the retail meat counter?

The problem has reached the point at which reaction sets in. In studying the weekend newspaper advertisements of 16 retail chain stores in seven cities for a period of a little over six months, USDA's Economic Research Service listed about 180 different descriptive names or kinds of steaks and nearly 150 descriptions of roasts.

A summary of meanings clarifying store names for beef cuts could be briefly explained — the identifying answers depend largely on the section of the country you live in and what the butcher in your neighborhood labels the cut of meat because there is no uniform reference to many of the cuts of meat you'll find in any food market.

One selected retail chain which had stores in five of the cities studied by USDA listed over 80 different names and descriptions for steaks and over 60 for roasts. The consumer may become familiar with

Tested Bull Sale Slated

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture
The once-a-year sale of bulls from the Ohio Bull Testing Program is slated for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Ohio Expositions Center. It's an excellent opportunity for purebred and commercial cattle breeders to buy Ohio Certified Performance Bulls, according to W. W. Wharton, Extension Animal Science Specialist at the Ohio State University.

About 89 bulls of seven breeds are expected to complete the 140-day testing program which ends April 3 and 4. They have been kept under common environmental conditions for evaluating rate of gain, soundness, muscling, breed character and condition. Anyone wishing to see the bulls may view them at the test site, under the viaduct at the Expositions Center.

For bulls to be accepted in the sale, they must have gains of at least 2.25 pounds per day while on test, a lifetime gain of 2 pounds per day or more, and a final type score of 13 (middle choice) or better.

A few Ohio Certified Superior Performance Bulls will also be offered. These are bulls which have gained 3 or more pounds a day while on test with a lifetime gain of 2.5 pounds per day and a type score of 14.

All traits (breed and sex character, skeletal structure, development and soundness, muscling and condition) will be weighted and a final type and index for each bull will be computed before sale time.

on parliamentary procedure. A game called "Articles we Have" was played for recreation.

Refreshments were served by Janet Wolford and Vanessa Mills. The next meeting will be April 12, at 3:30 p.m., at Logan Elm High School.

Buttons and Bowls Jr. 4-H Club held their meeting March 27th at Washington Twp. School.

Demonstrations were given by Carol Kraft, Susan Hoffman and Brenda Bolender. The demonstrations consisted of selecting patterns, equipment for sewing basket and how to place patterns on material.

During the business meeting the Constitution was discussed and the selection of winners of the 4-H book cover. Cary Ater received first place, Cindy Ater second, and Jackie Cave third place.

The Officers and Advisors meeting was held April 4th at Jackson School.

Joanna Duval provided entertainment for the members. Refreshments were served by Sandy and Sheila Carter, Cheryl Hawkins and Nancy Trax.

The next meeting will be 7 p.m. April 10 at Washington Twp. School.

Fertilize Alfalfa For High Yields

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture
Few crops grown in Ohio offer more potential nutrient value than alfalfa; yet, no other crop has been so neglected, claims R. Hunter Follett, Extension Agronomist at the Ohio State University.

"Good farmers get up to six and eight tons of alfalfa per acre," Follett notes, "and yields of 10 tons are possible. In fact, last year, agronomists produced over 10 tons of alfalfa per acre on research plots near Columbus."

If you want to shoot at these higher yields, the first step is to treat the alfalfa like an important "cash crop" as you would treat corn.

The second step is to select a soil with adequate drainage. Root development, nutrient uptake, nitrogen fixation and winter survival depend on well-drained soil.

STEP three is to determine the soil nutrient levels by having the soil tested. Soil pH, lime requirements and existing levels of phosphorus and potassium can be determined by analyzing the soil in a laboratory.

Soil acidity is an old problem in growing alfalfa, so recent research in Ohio shows that step four is to correct the soil pH-zone to a pH of 7 on all soils where the soil below the plow-zone is acid. If possible, apply lime and incorporate it within the plow-zone at least six months prior to seeding alfalfa.

Step five is to make the necessary fertilizer applications. Alfalfa is a heavy user of phosphorus and potassium. The plants contain about .3 per cent phosphorus and 3 to 4 per cent potassium on a dry matter basis. To maintain alfalfa levels, apply 14 pounds P2O5 and 50 pounds K2O for each ton of alfalfa removed annually. Ten tons of alfalfa will contain about 140 pounds of P2O5 and 500 pounds of K2O.

Alfalfa will respond to higher soil test levels of phosphorus and potassium than many other agronomic crops. Research indicates that the soil level of phosphorus should approach 90

(Bray P1 test) and the potassium level 300, in order for alfalfa to express fully its genetic potential. Corrective application of phosphorus and potassium should be added and incorporated prior to seeding. Annual soil tests will assist in keeping a constant reading of all nutrient levels.

You may apply phosphate and potash any time during the year; however, application following the first cutting and-or during the fall season is preferred. The time of application is not critical. Single applications to last a year are possible and can save cost and labor.

Food Stamp Rule On Household Is Suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture has suspended a rule requiring that food-stamp recipients in a household be related.

The instructions sent to state welfare agencies Friday carried out a temporary restraining order issued Thursday by U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith Jr. of Washington, D.C.

The court order came as a result of a lawsuit filed by the Center on Social Welfare Policy and Law of New York on behalf of several low-income households.

The lawsuit seeks to strike down a rule written into food-stamps law last year by Congress aimed at preventing non-related communal groups from participating in the food program.

Whenever you fertilize, make sure you provide enough for top yields. Some soils can stand "mining" for a while. Other soils do not have a reserve, and attempts to increase alfalfa yields through good management practices, but with too little fertilizer, are doomed to failure.

Remember, with top management you may need only half the acres. This means dollars in your pocket to produce 80 tons on 10 acres rather than 80 tons on 20 acres.

Pointers From Penni

By PENNI NIELSEN
Home Economics Agents

What is a deekle... a deekle chuck, that is? What is a frankie? You may know about the Delmonico rib steak, or rib eye — and a top chuck fillet, a chuck petite, or chuck tenders. If you're not confused, you are a very sophisticated shopper!

Just a few names for steak are: sirloin tip, sirloin tip round steak boneless, jiffy steak, minute steak, chicken steak, family steak, breakfast steak, blade steak and chuck 7 - bone steak.

"Store names" for cuts of meat — especially beef — have proliferated and grown more colorful until sometimes it is difficult to identify what cut is being talked about.

Animals are changing. Now they're either larger or smaller, whichever is desired, and they're leaner and their meat more palatable. They are raised that way. But — the anatomy of the carcass remains basically the same. When cut for retail purposes by either of two alternate methods, there are 14 or 18 cuts. Then, how can there be so many different kinds of steaks and so many different kinds of steak advertised in ads by the retail grocer? How can consumers determine what cuts of meat they are really buying at the retail meat counter?

The problem has reached the point at which reaction sets in. In studying the weekend newspaper advertisements of 16 retail chain stores in seven cities for a period of a little over six months, USDA's Economic Research Service listed about 180 different descriptive names or kinds of steaks and nearly 150 descriptions of roasts.

A summary of meanings clarifying store names for beef cuts could be briefly explained — the identifying answers depend largely on the section of the country you live in and what the butcher in your neighborhood labels the cut of meat because there is no uniform reference to many of the cuts of meat you'll find in any food market.

One selected retail chain which had stores in five of the cities studied by USDA listed over 80 different names and descriptions for steaks and over 60 for roasts. The consumer may become familiar with certain cuts her favorite chain advertises and uses in her city. If she moves into another area or region she has to learn all over again because the supermarket where she now shops is cutting the steer differently — or maybe just calling her favorite cut by another name.

In the old days it was said that the more valued meat cutter was one who could get many retail cuts from one primal section of beef. The country store where the storekeeper carried only one kind of meat carcass still gave his customers variety in whatever they asked for, be it steak, rib roast, hamburger, or whatever — it all came from the same side of meat.

Two states, New York and Massachusetts, have become interested in the proliferation of cuts advertised and carried by the meat counters and are now drafting regulatory measures. A large chain store in the Midwest has added "truth in labelling" of meat to its consumer program. The National Livestock and Meat Board has become interested in the question of meat labelling. It is planning a national program to simplify customer identification and selection of meat cuts.

Buying meat, which accounts for a large share of the grocery dollars, is a difficult task for the family shopper. Having to pick and choose, ponder and decide between the names given to steaks and roasts may tend to add to the frustration in trying to provide a family with a nutritious diet.

To help you choose and prepare beef cuts ask for the bulletin "Beef and Veal in Family Meals" at the Extension Office.

Playboy Creates Official Stir

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Authorities seized illicit imports of Playboy magazine this week, but were puzzled over what course to take with a braile version of the banned magazine.

The last Playboy legally brought into South Africa was the September 1963 issue, but this doesn't stop local fans from smuggling copies in their luggage when returning from other countries.

Police mounted a roadblock to check motorists returning from Easter vacations in Swaziland, where Playboy is legal, and more than 20 motorists handed over copies. The culprits were mostly middle-aged, middle-class whites.

One turned in four copies. He said he was a commissioner of oaths at a magistrate's court and expressed concern about the effect of the confiscations on his job.

"But the worst thing is that the damn things weren't for me at all," he protested. "They were for the public prosecutors I work with."

Jose Feliciano, a blind American musician, posed a different problem when he arrived with a braile Playboy. The publication carries the text but not the pin-ups from the regular edition.

Feliciano still has his magazine and the censors declined to comment on whether it was legal or not.

Lindsay hailed Chaplin as "the most decent human being, skilled artist and great citizen of the world."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'The Reverend' Needs A Last Name

DEAR ABBY: Customs and social patterns are constantly changing, so perhaps you can tell me if my sensitivities are now outmoded.

I am a clergyman who is constantly surprised at how many well-meaning people address me simply as "Reverend." I'm not talking about those phone solicitors who put "Reverend" somewhere in every sentence, to impress me with their piety, but ordinary people who either are unsure about how to use the title or who won't take the trouble to learn my name.

To me, addressing someone as "Reverend" without the name is worse than calling someone "Mister" without the name. I'd rather hear, "Hey, Rev!" At least that is not sanctimonious.

Am I old-fashioned? If not, perhaps people who wish to use the title "Reverend" with respect would appreciate a reminder of its proper use.

THE REVEREND PROBLEM

MEADSVILLE, PA. DEAR REVEREND PROBLEM: Those who address you as the "Reverend" without using your last name, think they are being respectful. Forgive them, for they know not what they do. (But after this, many should know better.)

DEAR ABBY: You said that technically if one no longer has a legal spouse, he no longer has in-laws.

Well, I am a Certified Public Accountant, and at least for tax purposes, relationships created by marriage do not end by divorce or the death of spouse. So one may continue to claim an exemption for a dependent mother in law after his spouse dies, if he continues to support her.

So it is possible (God forbid) to have two or more mothers in law!

VILLANOVA C.P.A. DEAR VILLANOVA: Thanks for setting me straight. In the interest of peaceful relations between you and your mother in law, I shall not disclose your identity. (And if there is only ONE C.P.A. in Villanova, Penn. Pal, you're in trouble.)

DEAR ABBY: Just what is a baby sitter supposed to do? I am 16, and I do babysitting about three evenings a week for this one lady who leaves all the supper dishes from the weekend waiting for me. It's not that she is busy. She is just lazy. She has only the one child.

I have thought about quitting, but I need the money. What should I do?

Miss Goode President Of District ONA

Miss Margaret A. Goode, Circleville, has been named president of the Mid-Ohio District of Ohio Nurses Association.

A graduate of St. Francis School of Nursing, she received a bachelor of science degree in nursing and a masters degree in medical-surgical nursing.

She is working towards a doctorate degree in nursing at Ohio State University.

She has had professional experience in general duty and supervisory staff nursing positions, office nursing, public health nursing, as a faculty member of Ohio State's nursing school and has been director of nursing service at Grant Hospital, Columbus.

more than sit, she should be prepared to pay you for it. (P.S. And you should also be prepared to look for another sitting job.)

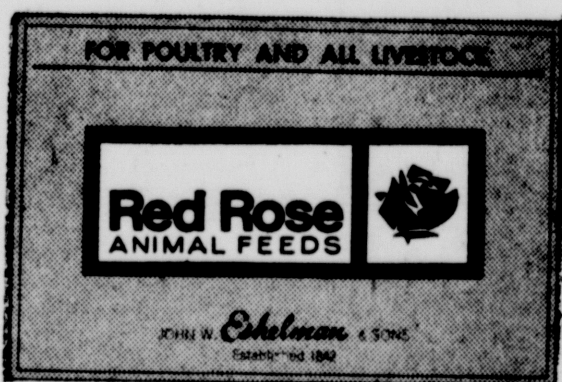

DEAR ABBY: I am an eligible bachelor, and like all men in my position I am constantly asked, "How come you aren't married?" Abby, I am tired of trying to come up with an answer to this asinine question, which really is nobody's business.

Can you provide me with a real sharp retort?

BACHELOR

DEAR BACHELOR: You could say, "I would rather go through life wanting something I don't have than —have something I don't want."

GOOD FEEDING starts when you use Red Rose on your farm!

The way to measure feed values is to compare the results with the cost. Feed Red Rose to your cows, calves, steers, horses, pigs or poultry. You'll find that the milk you get from your cows, the beef and pork you send to market, or the eggs you gather are the results you have been hoping for -- to get that extra profit!

Every bag of Red Rose feed you buy contains high quality ingredients—plus the unseen ingredients of Red Rose research and years of manufacturing experience.

Spending Lag

A Senate subcommittee on economy in government has run head-on into the perennial problem of keeping government departments from wasting public funds as the end of the fiscal year approaches. Department heads don't like to leave funds unspent in one fiscal year for fear they won't receive as much the next time around.

Other congresses have been upset by the practice. Investigations have been held and chastisements have been issued, and the practice continues.

This time, however, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, was imprudent enough to send telegrams to his procurement officers informing them the Navy was running behind about $400 million in its "outlay targets" for the fiscal year ending June 30.

In part, the admiral's telegram read: "Difficulty of achieving these targets during the remaining months of FY 72 fully appreciated, but importance of avoiding shortfall in meeting newly established FY 72 targets to avoid resultant adverse effects on anticipated FY 1973 outlay ceilings dictate need for top management attention."

Denying this message meant waste would be tolerated, Adm. Isaac C. Kidd, chief of naval material, told the committee, "We're string savers like the next fellow."

No doubt. Which merely proves again government agencies are inherently inefficient. Lacking a profit motive, they are sustained by expanding budgets.

More Of The Same

Britain's turnabout in domestic affairs as revealed in the Heath government's new budget is both dramatic and potentially expensive. The new budget is loaded with economic gifts to virtually every segment of the population.

From general tax cuts to increased pensions for the retired, each plank of the budget is designed to battle Britain's worst unemployment totals in a quarter century. It is a budget fashioned to increase personal spending of virtually every family, raise the living standards of the poor and provide new welfare benefits for "every year in the future."

The new budget also marks an official end to the Heath government's attempts to reduce the scope of government interference in the economy. Like inflation psychology, the something-for-nothing philosophy emanating from the seat of government is a difficult mania to overcome.

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: In the early morning an influential man will help you get what you want, but the rest of the day and evening bring all kinds of complications due to delays and obstacles that seem to harass and follow you. Adopt an attitude of taking each moment philosophically as it comes and avoid anything that is demanding.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning finds a good pal giving you the backing you need, but later make sure you avoid social matters which could prove dissatisfying. Stop feeling like a martyr and get into activities that appeal to you. Find the right hobby for yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Taking risks where your good name or your position in the community is concerned could lead to real trouble today. Pay bills. Show you are clever.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may get a helpful message in the a.m. Later, get busy with chores you simply have to do and stop worrying about them. Don't lose your temper with anyone. Take health treatments you need, exercise, etc.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) No better day than this to get at all those tasks which have been accumulating for some time and clear them up once and for all. Stop trying to rake over old difficulties with mate, too. Keep silent and all is well.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Go about your own personal business instead of trying to get together with associates today who have worries of their own to cope with. Guard your words with one who is of an explosive nature. Strive for more harmony instead.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try not to criticize another and mind your own particular affairs for good results today, tonight. Getting into activities that give you more energy is wise. Make home more attractive in some way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have certain talks to perform today, so don't try to continue fun you had yesterday. You need to cut down on expenses, also. Find the right way to do that. Drive with utmost care, especially in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Do not criticize those at home but help them in whatever their aims may be and have more harmony there in the days ahead. Not a good time to work on that plan you have in mind. Think it through once more.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You need the comfort of religious services, reading, philosophy, etc., in a.m. Then the world goes back into focus for you very quickly. Being most careful in motion is important. Trouble should be avoided as much as possible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are tempted to take unnecessary risks and would do well to think twice and then refrain from doing so, or it could prove very costly. Sit down with an expert in business and talk over some problem you have. Get right advice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You think that by being forceful you get respect, but all you get is resentment now. Living the Golden Rule is your best method. The evening should be devoted to whatever is of a cultural nature.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Instead of losing your temper because you are worried, get busy with whatever is of a personal nature and relax. Lending a helping hand to someone else in trouble minimizes your own woes. Read some, too, in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who seems to lag behind other youngsters in play, at school, at home, but this is only a slow starter who is very thorough about everything and actually absorbs more than others his or her own age. Upon maturity will be ahead of others because of the steadfastness in the nature. A fine leader can emerge here, no matter what the forte is.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

MONDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime may be difficult for you although there is a chance to learn more about a new situation that could be helpful later on. Tonight the aspects lift and you find that you are able to plan the future with insight and intelligence. Discuss future with business experts.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handling confidential matters requires your finest judgment. Show that you are compassionate with others. Do not rely on your intuition now since it is apt to be faulty.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good friend has the right ideas to offer for your advancement, so make sure you accept them. Your own thoughts are not quite up to par. Await a better time to engage in group affairs.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A prominent person you know can help improve your image, so visit him or her without delay. Keeping promises that will enhance your career is most important today. Ask for expert's opinion.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have fine new ideas which should not be put in motion until you've done more study of details. Do not forego whatever is important. Show that you have willpower.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care of obligations even though you may be bored with them, since they are important at this time. Avoid an argument with mate or it could lead to trouble. Use that suave manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are tempted to change associates because you are having a personal problem, so be more than fair with them instead. Don't permit one who opposes you to interfere with your plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can do your best work in the morning, but if trouble crops up later don't be alarmed. Take it in your stride. Take those treatments that will help you to have better health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Shop around for the appliances that will add more comfort and beauty around your home. Operating more efficiently is most important in the future. Use diplomacy and improve relation with kin.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Care and caution should be exercised to avoid possible trouble. Go over letters and reports for any possible errors. Evening can be an especially happy time with kin at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try not to argue with persons you are dealing with where property and other matters are concerned. Use a friendly approach and all goes well. You can rely on your own good judgment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You need to put your life on a more secure basis, so

According To Boyle

By DAVID VIDAL (For Hal Boyle)

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — The king of the African jungle is footloose in Brazil, entertaining hundreds who pay $5 to mingle with His Majesty in a natural habitat.

Cars lined up for miles in a recent opening Sunday to get a chance to drive through 120,000 square yards of open forest housing 23 free-roaming lions.

The "Simba Safari," lion park, first on this continent, was an instant hit in Latin America's largest city.

The lions are confined only by two 20-foot-high wire fences which encircle the park, but otherwise are free to walk along the 1.8 miles of paved road used by the visitors, or to simply lie in the forest.

"I visited many parks throughout the world," said Francisco "Chico" Galvao, originator of the $180,000 project here.

"This is the eighth. And from what I could gather, ours is the prettiest both in terms of vegetation and geography. The park in the United States is situated in a desert. In the others vegetation is scarce, relying mostly on eucalyptus trees. And there's another thing: This park is the first one in which the lions are put together. In the others they are kept apart."

Galvao and three other Brazilian outdoorsmen and hunters brought the lions to their new home on a 3,400-foot inland plateau on the Tropic of Capricorn. Eventually, 50 lions will occupy the park situated on and purchased from the near-by Sao Paulo Zoo. Most will have been brought from other zoos in Africa or Latin America.

Visitors to the park must ride in cars. They pay the equivalent of just under $1 per person to see the lions from one of the park's zebra-striped Jeeps or converse with those who can give you good ideas. Let experts do any fixing around your home and save money in the long run.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Forget unpleasant emotion when dealing with good friends or you could lose them quickly. Voice few complaints. Try a new approach with mate and get far better results in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young people with a most romantic nature, but given to daydreaming too much. Teach early to be more practical or your youngster could get hurt a great deal during lifetime because of lack of objectivity.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are tempted to change associates because you are having a personal problem, so be more than fair with them instead. Don't permit one who opposes you to interfere with your plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can do your best work in the morning, but if trouble crops up later don't be alarmed. Take it in your stride. Take those treatments that will help you to have better health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Shop around for the appliances that will add more comfort and beauty around your home. Operating more efficiently is most important in the future. Use diplomacy and improve relation with kin.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Care and caution should be exercised to avoid possible trouble. Go over letters and reports for any possible errors. Evening can be an especially happy time with kin at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try not to argue with persons you are dealing with where property and other matters are concerned. Use a friendly approach and all goes well. You can rely on your own good judgment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You need to put your life on a more secure basis, so almost $5 to ride through in their own cars. There is no limit on how many persons may be inside.

Car windows must be closed at all times, although the lions appear generally tame and have been trained to become accustomed to cars. Hornblowing is prohibited.

All along the road, park security rangers remain on alert, armed with rifles that shoot anaesthetic pellets in the case of attacks. The pellets can put an attacking lion to sleep without hurting him.

In spite of the obvious need for safety precautions, some visitors were somewhat let down upon learning a little-known fact: Lions cry.

Samson, Leonard and Simon, the first beasts set free in the park, cuddled up to the closed gates and began crying on their first night of freedom in Brazil.

The reason? "They got scared," Chico Galvao said. "They began to miss people."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Falling asleep while driving an automobile is one of the great hazards to life.

The statistics are staggering.

Unfortunately, the sense of sleepiness is sometimes fought off until suddenly the moment of sleep occurs, followed by the inevitable accident and disaster.

A group of scientists at Duke University Medical Center, headed by Dr. C. William Erwin, are studying ways to determine that dreaded moment of sleep. They are wiring volunteers and, working under simulated driving conditions, are trying to find a way to warn drivers that they are about to fall asleep.

At present, small computers working on a battery are being used to signal to the driver the possibility of oncoming sleep.

Automobile engineers are actively supporting the research project in the hope that this warning device may soon be incorporated in all cars.

A new and fascinating way to treat people with specific fears has just been instituted by Dr. Emanuel D. Zane, a psychiatrist at White Plains Hospital in New York.

He believes that when a phobia, or fear, is present it should be treated where it occurs rather than in the intimate confines of his private office.

The first ten patients treated by Dr. Zane were suffering from fears of being in an elevator.

He himself took his patients to the elevators and slowly helped to reduce their anxiety. The results were dramatic because the patient himself confronted his fears and met the challenge.

Dr. Zane feels that far too often, people with fears of animals, tunnels, and heights simply run away rather than face the situation and work out the problem.

This novel approach varies considerably from the standard accepted techniques of psychotherapy. It will be watched with great interest.

Just as the liver is seriously affected by overindulgence in alcohol, so are the heart muscle and other muscles of the body.

Dr. Emanuel Rubin and Dr. Sun K. Song of the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York City have completed an important study. Their advice is "Don't tell the patient who is suffering from alcoholic muscle changes to cut down on the martinis and eat more protein. Instead, tell them to stop drinking entirely."

This is the only way to preserve the healthy condition of body muscles degenerated by long overuse of alcohol.

Atom Plant Hearing Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Water Pollution Control Board will meet Wednesday to consider an application for certification of the William H. Zimmer nuclear power plant at Moscow, Ohio.

Board certification would relate only to water pollution control measures.

Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. and Dayton Power & Light Co. have joined in the venture to build $300 million plant on the Ohio River. The nuclear unit is to have a capacity of more than 840,000 kilowatts.

The Atomic Energy Commission has yet to approve a license for construction because of tighter environmental regulations.

Public hearings will be held soon on construction but no date has yet been set.

Alaska Ratifies Rights Amendment

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Alaska has become the 11th state to ratify the proposed constitutional amendment guaranteeing equal rights to women.

It was approved Wednesday by the legislature.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Can a good idea born into a hostile or indifferent society succeed?

Since environments change, the rejected ideas of yesterday often are welcomed today. Any fashion designer or marketing man can attest to it.

To illustrate, in the late 1950s Ford Motor Co. sought to interest the public in safety, but by most measures the attempt failed.

Now safety is "in." Every one of the big automakers is attempting to produce a safer car, although with considerable prompting from federal officials.

Another example: Early in the boom that followed World War II and which continues today people bought what they had long postponed buying. Included were foods and drinks that weren't available during the war and which they couldn't afford before it.

The results were measured on more than scales. Whereas malnutrition was a common health problem that turned up in insurance company files before the war, obesity replaced it after the war.

This was still before this battle of the bulge made millions of Americans so calorie and nutrition conscious. To put vitamin contents on packages would have been disdained as too medicinal, and the calories count as just malicious.

Now the Food and Drug Administration intends to see that just such information is included on packaged food labels, and quite likely the proposal will be welcomed in this calorie conscious, vitamin minded age.

The FDA chose five supermarket chains to test various labels containing such information and soon found itself, in the words of a spokesman, "bombarded" with requests from other retailers to get in on the act.

There are reasons for the interest shown by the retailers. Shoppers are sharper today. They aren't as impressed by the beauty of the package as by the writing thereon. They suspect that the dazzle of the marketing effort is meant to blind the buyer.

And so, even men who never examined the package except to read stories of sports heroes on the back of the cereal box when they were youths now hold the package close to their girth and squint down through their spectacles at the fine print.

Another old idea has blown around on cold, barren ground for many years—certainly for a century. It was restated this week by Carl Kamp Jr., a Federal Home Loan Board member, in a St. Louis speech.

"The area of property taxes has come into the spotlight lately," he said. "It might be worthwhile to consider looking at land and its taxation in a more practical and realistic way."

"For instance, isn't it counterproductive to levy higher taxes on improved property? Doesn't such a tax policy discourage rehabilitation of deteriorating properties? Why should a landlord keep his properties looking good and make necessary repairs if his taxes will increase?"

"Possibly a more realistic approach would be a land value tax which taxes the land and not the structure. Such a tax might well encourage improvements on many existing structures . . . in most metropolitan areas."

The same suggestion has been ignored for decades while cities blithely tax the citizen who erects a building and, in effect, rewards with low taxes the fellow who leaves his lot empty so as to park cars drawn by the building.

Tax restructuring now receives an audience, but for years it didn't. It took the crumble of core cities to provide the rich mulch for the seed.

Spending Lag

A Senate subcommittee on economy in government has run head-on into the perennial problem of keeping government departments from wasting public funds as the end of the fiscal year approaches. Department heads don't like to leave funds unspent in one fiscal year for fear they won't receive as much the next time around.

Other congresses have been upset by the practice. Investigations have been held and chastisements have been issued, and the practice continues.

This time, however, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, was imprudent enough to send telegrams to his procurement officers informing them the Navy was running behind about $400 million in its "outlay targets" for the fiscal year ending June 30.

In part, the admiral's telegram read: "Difficulty of achieving these targets during the remaining months of FY 72 fully appreciated, but importance of avoiding shortfall in meeting newly established FY 72 targets to avoid resultant adverse effects on anticipated FY 1973 outlay ceilings dictate need for top management attention."

Denying this message meant waste would be tolerated, Adm. Isaac C. Kidd, chief of naval material, told the committee, "We're string savers like the next fellow."

No doubt. Which merely proves again government agencies are inherently inefficient. Lacking a profit motive, they are sustained by expanding budgets.

More Of The Same

Britain's turnabout in domestic affairs as revealed in the Heath government's new budget is both dramatic and potentially expensive. The new budget is loaded with economic gifts to virtually every segment of the population.

From general tax cuts to increased pensions for the retired, each plank of the budget is designed to battle Britain's worst unemployment totals in a quarter century. It is a budget fashioned to increase personal spending of virtually every family, raise the living standards of the poor and provide new welfare benefits for "every year in the future."

The new budget also marks an official end to the Heath government's attempts to reduce the scope of government interference in the economy. Like inflation psychology, the something-for-nothing philosophy emanating from the seat of government is a difficult mania to overcome.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Can a good idea born into a hostile or indifferent society succeed?

Since environments change, the rejected ideas of yesterday often are welcomed today. Any fashion designer or marketing man can attest to it.

To illustrate, in the late 1950s Ford Motor Co. sought to interest the public in safety, but by most measures the attempt failed.

Now safety is "in." Every one of the big automakers is attempting to produce a safer car, although with considerable prompting from federal officials.

Another example: Early in the boom that followed World War II and which continues today people bought what they had long postponed buying. Included were foods and drinks that weren't available during the war and which they couldn't afford before it.

The results were measured on more than scales. Whereas malnutrition was a common health problem that turned up in insurance company files before the war, obesity replaced it after the war.

This was still before this battle of the bulge made millions of Americans so calorie and nutrition conscious. To put vitamin contents on packages would have been disdained as too medicinal, and the calories count as just malicious.

Now the Food and Drug Administration intends to see that just such information is included on packaged food labels, and quite likely the proposal will be welcomed in this calorie-conscious, vitamin minded age.

The FDA chose five supermarket chains to test various labels containing such information and soon found itself, in the words of a spokesman, "bombarded" with requests from other retailers to get in on the act.

There are reasons for the interest shown by the retailers. Shoppers are sharper today. They aren't as impressed by the beauty of the package as by the writing thereon. They suspect that the dazzle of the marketing effort is meant to blind the buyer.

And so, even men who never examined the package except to read stories of sports heroes on the back of the cereal box when they were youths now hold the package close to their nose and squint down through their spectacles at the fine print.

Another old idea has blown around on cold, barren ground for many years—certainly for a century. It was restated this week by Carl Kamp Jr., a Federal Home Loan Board member, in a St. Louis speech.

"The area of property taxes has come into the spotlight lately," he said. "It might be worthwhile to consider looking at land and its taxation in a more practical and realistic way."

"For instance, isn't it counterproductive to levy higher taxes on improved property? Doesn't such a tax policy discourage rehabilitation of deteriorating properties? Why should a landlord keep his properties looking good and make necessary repairs if his taxes will increase?"

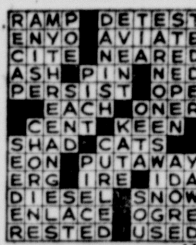

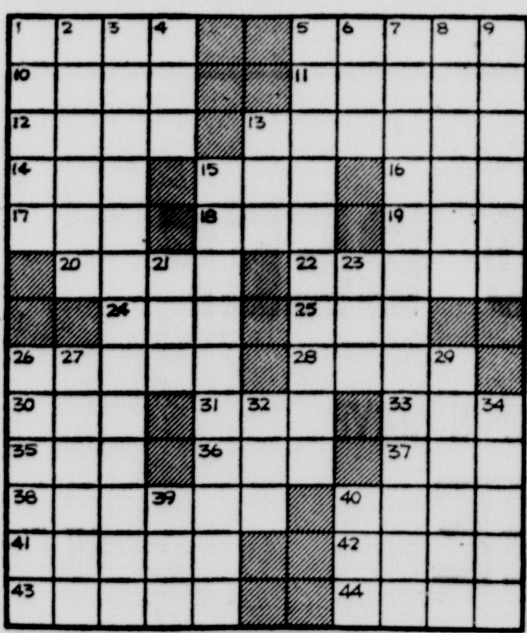

"Possibly a more realistic approach would be a land value tax which taxes the land and not the structure. Such a tax might well encourage improvements on many existing structures . . . in most metropolitan areas."

The same suggestion has been ignored for decades while cities blithely tax the citizen who erects a building and, in effect, rewards with low taxes the fellow who leaves his lot empty so as to park cars drawn by the building.

Tax restructuring now receives an audience, but for years it didn't. It took the crumble of core cities to provide the rich mulch for the seed.

Laff-A-Day

"If wives knew what secretaries think of their husbands—they'd stop worrying!"

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE
GENERAL TENDENCIES: In the early morning an influential man will help you get what you want, but the rest of the day and evening bring all kinds of complications due to delays and obstacles that seem to harass and follow you. Adopt an attitude of taking each moment philosophically as it comes and avoid anything that is demanding.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
Morning finds a good pal giving you the backing you need, but later make sure you avoid social matters which could prove dissatisfying. Stop feeling like a martyr and get into activities that appeal to you. Find the right hobby for yourself.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)
Taking risks where your good name or your position in the community is concerned could lead to real trouble today. Pay bills. Show you are clever.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)
You may get a helpful message in the a.m. Later, get busy with chores you simply have to do and stop worrying about them. Don't lose your temper with anyone. Take health treatments you need, exercise, etc.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)
No better day than this to get at all those tasks which have been accumulating for some time and clear them up once and for all. Stop trying to rake over old difficulties with mate, too. Keep silent and all is well.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)
Go about your own personal business instead of trying to get together with associates today who have worries of their own to cope with. Guard your words with one who is of an explosive nature. Strive for more harmony instead.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
Try not to criticize another and mind your own particular affairs for good results today, tonight. Getting into activities that give you more energy is wise. Make home more attractive in some way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
You have certain tasks to perform today, so don't try to continue fun you had yesterday. You need to cut down on expenses, also. Find the right way to do that. Drive with utmost care, especially in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
Do not criticize those at home but help them in whatever their aims may be and have more harmony there in the days ahead. Not a good time to work on that plan you have in mind. Think it through once more.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
You need the comfort of religious services, reading, philosophy, etc., in a.m. Then the world goes back into focus for you very quickly. Being most careful in motion is important. Trouble should be avoided as much as possible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
You are tempted to take unnecessary risks and would do well to think twice and then refrain from doing so, or it could prove very costly. Sit down with an expert in business and talk over some problem you have. Get right advice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
You think that by being forceful you get respect, but all you get is resentment now. Living the Golden Rule is your best method. The evening should be devoted to whatever is of a cultural nature.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
Instead of losing your temper because you are worried, get busy with whatever is of a personal nature and relax. Lending a helping hand to someone else in trouble minimizes your own woes. Read some, too, in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who seems to lag behind other youngsters in play, at school, at home, but this is only a slow starter who is very thorough about everything and actually absorbs more than others his or her own age. Upon maturity will be ahead of others because of the steadfastness in the nature. A fine leader can emerge here, no matter what the forte is.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

MONDAY'S HOROSCOPE
GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime may be difficult for you although there is a chance to learn more about a new situation that could be helpful later on. Tonight the aspects left and you find that you are able to plan the future with insight and intelligence. Discuss future with business experts.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
Handling confidential matters requires your finest judgment. Show that you are compassionate with others. Do not rely on your intuition now since it is apt to be faulty.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)
A good friend has the right ideas to offer for your advancement, so make sure you accept them. Your own thoughts are not quite up to par. Await a better time to engage in group affairs.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)
A prominent person you know can help improve your image, so visit him or her without delay. Keeping promises that will enhance your career is most important today. Ask for expert's opinion.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)
You have fine new ideas which should not be put in motion until you've done more study of details. Do not forego whatever is important. Show that you have willpower.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)
Take care of obligations even though you may be bored with them, since they are important at this time. Avoid an argument with mate or it could lead to trouble. Use that suave manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
You are tempted to change associates because you are having a personal problem, so be more than fair with them instead. Don't permit one who opposes you to interfere with your plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
You can do your best work in the morning, but if trouble crops up later don't be alarmed. Take it in your stride. Take those treatments that will help you to have better health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
Shop around for the appliances that will add more comfort and beauty around your home. Operating more efficiently is most important in the future. Use diplomacy and improve relation with kin.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
Care and caution should be exercised to avoid possible trouble. Go over letters and reports for any possible errors. Evening can be an especially happy time with kin at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Try not to argue with persons you are dealing with where property and other matters are concerned. Use a friendly approach and all goes well. You can rely on your own good judgment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
You need to put your life on a more secure basis, so

FAVORABLE VERDICT — right, and Mrs. Inez Williams, mother of Fleeta Drumgo, were a happy trio after a jury had acquitted the two Soledad Brothers who had been accused in the death of John Mills, Soledad Prison guard in 1970.

According To Boyle

By DAVID VIDAL (For Hal Boyle)

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — The king of the African jungle is foolsoe in Brazil, entertaining hundreds who pay $5 to mingle with His Majesty in a natural habitat.

Cars lined up for miles in a recent opening Sunday to get a chance to drive through 120,000 square yards of open forest housing 23 free-roaming lions.

The "Simba Safari," lion park, first on this continent, was an instant hit in Latin America's largest city.

The lions are confined only by two 20-foot-high wire fences which encircle the park, but otherwise are free to walk along the 1.8 miles of paved road used by the visitors, or to simply lie in the forest.

"I visited many parks throughout the world," said Francisco "Chico" Galvao, originator of the $180,000 project here.

"This is the eighth. And from what I could gather, ours is the prettiest both in terms of vegetation and geography. The park in the United States is situated in a desert. In the others vegetation is scarce, relying mostly on eucalyptus trees. And there's another thing: This park is the first one in which the lions are put together. In the others they are kept apart."

Galvao and three other Brazilian outdoorsmen and hunters brought the lions to their new home on a 3,400-foot inland plateau on the Tropic of Capricorn. Eventually, 50 lions will occupy the park situated on and purchased from the near-by Sao Paulo Zoo. Most will have been brought from other zoos in Africa or Latin America.

Visitors to the park must ride in cars. They pay the equivalent of just under $1 per person to see the lions from one of the park's zebra-striped Jeeps or converse with those who can give you good ideas. Let experts do any fixing around your home and save money in the long run.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
Forget unpleasant emotion when dealing with good friends or you could lose them quickly. Voice few complaints. Try a new approach with mate and get far better results in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young people with a most romantic nature, but given to daydreaming too much. Teach early to be more practical or your youngster could get hurt a great deal during lifetime because of lack of objectivity. Encourage to study more and prepare for a good job that will give security. A good chart for any field.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

almost $5 to ride through in their own cars. There is no limit on how many persons may be inside.

Car windows must be closed at all times, although the lions appear generally tame and have been trained to become accustomed to cars. Hornblowing is prohibited.

All along the road, park security rangers remain on alert, armed with rifles that shoot anaesthetic pellets in the case of attacks. The pellets can put an attacking lion to sleep without hurting him.

In spite of the obvious need for safety precautions, some visitors were somewhat let down upon learning a little-known fact: Lions cry.

Samson, Leonard and Simon, the first beasts set free in the park, cuddled up to the closed gates and began crying on their first night of freedom in Brazil.

The reason? "They got scared," Chico Galvao said. "They began to miss people."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Falling asleep while driving an automobile is one of the great hazards to life.

The statistics are staggering. Unfortunately, the sense of sleepiness is sometimes fought off until suddenly the moment of sleep occurs, followed by the inevitable accident and disaster.

A group of scientists at Duke University Medical Center, headed by Dr. C. William Erwin, are studying ways to determine that dreaded moment of sleep. They are wiring volunteers and, working under simulated driving conditions, are trying to find a way to warn drivers that they are about to fall asleep.

At present, small computers working on a battery are being used to signal to the driver the possibility of oncoming sleep.

Automobile engineers are actively supporting the research project in the hope that this warning device may soon be incorporated in all cars.

A new and fascinating way to treat people with specific fears has just been instituted by Dr. Manuel D. Zane, a psychiatrist at White Plains Hospital in New York.

He believes that when a phobia, or fear, is present it should be treated where it occurs rather than in the intimate confines of his private office.

The first ten patients treated by Dr. Zane were suffering from fears of being in an elevator.

He himself took his patients to the elevators and slowly helped to reduce their anxiety. The results were dramatic because the patient himself confronted his fears and met the challenge.

Dr. Zane feels that far too often, people with fears of animals, tunnels, and heights simply run away rather than face the situation and work out the problem.

This novel approach varies considerably from the standard accepted techniques of psychotherapy. It will be watched with great interest.

Just as the liver is seriously affected by overindulgence in alcohol, so are the heart muscle and other muscles of the body.

Dr. Emanuel Rubin and Dr. Sun K. Song of the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York City have completed an important study. Their advice is "Don't tell the patient who is suffering from alcoholic muscle changes to cut down on the martinis and eat more protein. Instead, tell them to stop drinking entirely."

This is the only way to preserve the healthy condition of body muscles degenerated by long overuse of alcohol.

Atom Plant Hearing Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Water Pollution Control Board will meet Wednesday to consider an application for certification of the William H. Zimmer nuclear power plant at Moscow, Ohio.

Board certification would relate only to water pollution control measures.

Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. and Dayton Power & Light Co. have joined in the venture to build $300 million plant on the Ohio River. The nuclear unit is to have a capacity of more than 840,000 kilowatts.

The Atomic Energy Commission has yet to approve a license for construction because of tighter environmental regulations.

Public hearings will be held soon on construction but no date has yet been set.

Enarson Eyes Great Duties Of OSU Post

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "The whole thing is breath-taking," is the way Harold L. Enarson describes Ohio State University since it was founded in 1886. His appointment to the OSU post Friday ended a six-month search by the school's Board of Trustees for a successor to retiring president Novice Fawcett, 63.

"I am impressed," Enarson said, "at the great range and depth of programs. To someone in my chosen field, Ohio State University has many attractions."

"But I must admit, the whole thing puts butterflies in my stomach."

OSU is one of the nation's largest universities with 50,000 students at its main and branch campuses. Public investments in the school are $380 million annually and $26 million is spent on research each year.

This compares with 21,000 students, $88 million in investments and $2 million for research when Fawcett took command as the school's eighth president in 1956.

Enarson received his bachelor's degree from the University of New Mexico in 1940, his master's degree from Stanford in 1946 and his doctorate from American University in 1951. As OSU president, he will receive $50,000 a year, have the use of a home on the campus, a chauffeur-driven automobile and a $10,000 expense account.

At Cleveland State, Enarson received $41,250, was provided with a home in suburban Shaker Heights, a chauffeur-driven automobile and a $7,500 expense account.

Evening Out Ends In Tragedy

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — It was past 2 a.m. when Leo and Jeanne Choiniere left their friend's home after an evening of playing Scrabble.

It had been a rare weekend night out for the family because Choiniere usually has to work as a driver for a catering company. But last Friday he didn't have to work.

"We figured we'd make a night of it," Choiniere said. "It was a night he will never forget—the last night his wife would be alive."

Early Saturday, Choiniere, his wife and two children, Michel, 8 and Daniel, 7, left their friends' home in the family car.

As Choiniere pulled onto Interstate 95 at Warwick and headed north to go past Providence to their home in Pawtucket, his maroon Chrysler was noted by a police car. About two miles later, Patrolman John Zincone of the Providence traffic division pulled Choiniere over and radioed for the description of a car being sought by police for running a traffic light in Warwick.

Minutes later, Mrs. Choiniere, 28, a housewife and a jewelry company worker, was dead, the victim of a shot from a policeman's gun.

Choiniere, who doesn't talk about the case now, earlier explained that he noticed four or five police cars.

"I slowed down when I saw them," he said. "I went by and my wife said, 'Leo, I think they want you to stop,' so I stopped in the breakdown lane."

"I put my car in park and this guy just opened the door grabbed me by the hair and pulled me onto the ground. The next thing that I heard was a 'bang' and that was it."

"My wife just said: 'Leo.'"

The next day, Providence Patrolman John G. Martin, 21, less than two years on the force, was charged with manslaughter in the shooting and suspended. Martin, who arrived at the scene with a partner after the Choiniere car was stopped, pleaded innocent and has been released on $10,000 personal recognizance bond.

Police refuse to talk about the incident now, but earlier released these details:

Police said last Saturday that a patrol car with Martin and Patrolman Joseph Gilligan arrived after the car had been stopped by Patrolman Zincone. Gilligan got out of the patrol car and went over to talk with the driver, when Martin stepped in front of his partner and "attempted to take the man out of the car," according to the Providence police chief, Col. Walter McQueeney.

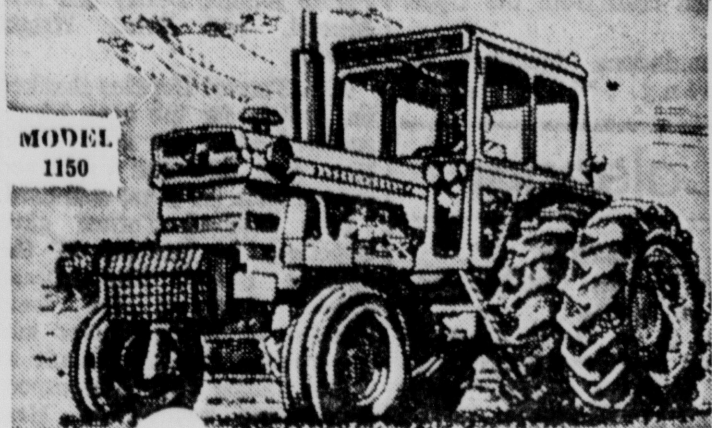

Martin had his gun out, in his left hand, and it discharged, police said. Mrs. Choiniere slumped over in the front seat, and died before she arrived at Rhode Island Hospital.

Choiniere, meantime, has not been charged with a traffic violation.

Chief McQueeney has steadfastly maintained his information shows that Choiniere car was the one being sought for running the traffic light in Warwick.

Chief Joseph Gallucci in Warwick contends otherwise. He says the patrolman who initiated the chase was questioned at length and definitely stated he was in pursuit of a white, not maroon, car.

Girls from the eighth grade home economics classes at Teays Valley Junior High School climaxed their classroom study of young children by serving as one-half day volunteers in day care center nurseries operated by Pickaway County Community Action.

All 112 girls in the program, under the direction of teacher Mrs. William Winter, met with the day care children in two centers located at the Community United Methodist Church and the Presbyterian Church Wednesday and Thursday.

They were divided into four groups to read stories, lead games and entertain the children.

As a part of their study, the eighth grade girls prepared a nutritional snack suitable for youngsters.

They also made toys for each of the children to take home using discarded items from their homes. There were tin cans for stacking, stuffed dolls, bean bags and bags of cookies.

Fostoria Man Faces Income Tax Charges

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Carl Kliesch of Fostoria has been charged with 10 counts of filing false and fraudulent income tax returns for 1970 while operating an H & R Block office in Fostoria.

U.S. Atty. Frederick Coleman of Cleveland said the 10 returns reflected overstatement of itemized deductions in the amount of $7,575.40. Kliesch's arrest Thursday was the third in Northern Ohio in 10 days as the result of an Internal Revenue Service crackdown on persons preparing fraudulent returns.

Cleveland Area Job Picture Gets Worse

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The unemployment rate in the four-county Cleveland statistical area jumped from 4.7 percent in January to 4.9 percent in February and the number of persons out of work rose from 43,600 to 45,500, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services announced Friday.

The bureau said average weekly earnings had increased $8 and now stand $22.50 higher than a year ago. It said employment climbed from 883,800 in January to 884,700 in February.

Evening Out Ends In Tragedy

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — It was past 2 a.m. when Leo and Jeanne Choiniere left their friend's home after an evening of playing Scrabble.

It had been a rare weekend night out for the family because Choiniere usually has to work as a driver for a catering company. But last Friday he didn't have to work.

Norwood GM Plant Struck Early Today

CINCINNATI (AP) — The United Auto Workers struck the Norwood General Motors Assembly plant at 1:30 a.m. today after two weeks of negotiations over manpower and work speed failed to resolve differences with GM.

GM closed the plant at 6 p.m. Friday after 409 of 1,750 employees scheduled to work the shift failed to report. Talks broke off at 8 p.m. and were scheduled to resume at 2 p.m. today.

The UAW set today's strike deadline March 27 allowing two weeks to seek a settlement.

Richard Minton, president of Local 674 said his union had 8,800 employees represented at GM operations in Norwood until March, 1971.

The third shift was eliminated at the Chevrolet and adjoining Fisher Body plants in May, 1971. In August, the two plants were consolidated under the GM Assembly Division. Minton said there are now only 3,850 employees at GMAD operations in Norwood.

A GM spokesman disputed the figures, saying 4,475 were employed at GMAD lines in July, 1970, and the figure has been reduced by 400 since then.

Jim Young, UAW negotiation committee chairman countered that there were more than 4,700 employees when GMAD took over and they have since reduced the payroll by approximately 850 workers.

"We figured we'd make a night of it," Choiniere said. It was a night he will never forget—the last night his wife would be alive.

Early Saturday, Choiniere, his wife and two children, Michel, 8 and Daniel, 7, left their friends' home in the family car.

As Choiniere pulled onto Interstate 95 at Warwick and headed north to go past Providence to their home in Pawtucket, his maroon Chrysler was noted by a police car. About two miles later, Patrolman John Zincone of the Providence traffic division pulled Choiniere over and radioed for the description of a car being sought by police for running a traffic light in Warwick.

Minutes later, Mrs. Choiniere, 28, a housewife and a jewelry company worker, was dead, the victim of a shot from a policeman's gun.

Choiniere, who doesn't talk about the case now, earlier explained that he noticed four or five police cars.

"I slowed down when I saw them," he said. "I went by and my wife said, 'Leo, I think they want you to stop,' so I stopped in the breakdown lane."

"I put my car in park and this guy just opened the door grabbed me by the hair and pulled me onto the ground. The next thing that I heard was a 'bang' and that was it."

"My wife just said: 'Leo.'"

The next day, Providence Patrolman John G. Martin, 24, less than two years on the force, was charged with manslaughter in the shooting and suspended. Martin, who arrived at the scene with a partner after the Choiniere car was stopped, pleaded innocent and has been released on $10,000 personal recognizance bond.

Police refuse to talk about the incident now, but earlier released these details:

Police said last Saturday that a patrol car with Martin and Patrolman Joseph Gilligan arrived after the car had been stopped by Patrolman Zincone. Gilligan got out of the patrol car and went over to talk with the driver, when Martin stepped in front of his partner and "attempted to take the man out of the car," according to the Providence police chief, Col. Walter McQueeney.

Martin had his gun out, in his left hand, and it discharged, police said. Mrs. Choiniere slumped over in the front seat, and died before she arrived at Rhode Island Hospital.

Choiniere, meantime, has not been charged with a traffic violation.

Chief McQueeney has steadfastly maintained his information shows that Choiniere car was the one being sought for running the traffic light in Warwick.

Chief Joseph Gallucci in Warwick contends otherwise. He says the patrolman who initiated the chase was questioned at length and definitely stated he was in pursuit of a white, not maroon, car.

Mrs. Oscar Atwood Hosts Mt. Pleasant Society

Women's Society of Christian Service of Mt. Pleasant United Methodist Church met recently in the home of Mrs. Oscar Atwood. Present were Mrs. John Shaw and Mrs. Wayne Atwood as assisting hostesses.

President, Mrs. Boyd Moody, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Samuel Kilian took her devotions from Ecclesiastes 3: 3-13 and read from the Upper Room.

Presentations included the reading "Lilac Spring

Memories" by Mrs. Donna Billups, the poem "Art Of Life" by Mrs. Kilian, the song "Shower Of Blessings" by members, the poem "God's Purposes" by Mrs. Kilian and a solo "April Showers" by Mrs. Billups, accompanied on the accordion by Mrs. John Shaw.

Roll was called with 12 members and four guests, Phillip Billups, Lesley and Lisa Atwood, and Brian Wright present.

Mrs. Forrest Hopkins thanked the society for the book Ideas received when she was ill and Mrs. Roy Rittinger expressed appreciation for a get-well card.

Miss Mildred Turner gave directions to location of the "Spring Fling." Mrs. Oscar Atwood told of the local mission, of giving brooms and the training campus crusade at Dallas Expo '72. Correspondence was read from Mrs. Kenneth Streevey and American Red Cross. Mrs. Hopkins read information of Red Bird Mission.

The new name proposed for the society is United Methodist Women.

Mrs. Moody presented the program using Scripture from Mark 4 and the poem "The Years At The Spring." Members sang "Work For The Night Is Coming." The poem, "Spring" was read by Mrs. John Moss Sr., "Daffodils" by Mrs. Hopkins and "I Saw God Wash The World" by Mrs. Moody. Members then sang "In The Garden" and Mrs. Moody read the poem "God's Garden."

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Ed Linville with Mrs. Marion Mowery and Mrs. Paul Counts assisting.

MADAME PRESIDENT — winning actress, who now Polly Bergen, the award-heads her own cosmetic company was always interested in beauty.

Starring In A New Career

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

People have been asking for Polly Bergen's autograph for years — but not any more! Now when they recognize the dazzling brunette in a restaurant or on the street, they have a new approach.

"They want to know how to put on false lashes," she said "or what to do about dry skin or blackheads. I have a new image! Only five years ago I was an entertainer. Now people know me as a beauty authority."

President of her own cosmetic empire, Polly is as successful in her new role as she was as an award-winning actress and popular recording star. It may be because, in manner of speaking, beauty has always been her business.

"In the entertainment field," she said, "your face is your fortune. I've been using makeup since I toddled onto a stage at age 4."

A personal beauty problem, dry skin, launched her cosmetic career. She asked a chemist to develop a special formula for her and, after 17 tries, he hit on one that worked like magic. The secret ingredient? Oil of the turtle.

When Polly mentioned the formula during a TV interview, three hundred department stores phoned the station to request the product and a beauty business was born. Now, as part of Gulf & Western Industries, her company markets a complete line of treatment, fragrance and makeup products, all of them carrying her personal stamp of approval.

"I think of the things that make beauty care simple, then I work on developing them," Polly said as she fingered her latest product, lip coloring in a brush.

"I got the idea for this from the felt marker pens," she said. "But you can't get lipstick to flow like ink, so we experimented and developed a brush that comes out of the case coated with lip coloring and ready to use. There's oil of turtle in the formula, so, in addition to coloring, it helps prevent flaky, peeling lips, too." The lip coloring will come in a wide range of shades that are vivid but almost see-through.

"After 30, a woman's face needs a lift," she pointed out. "Shades that are too pale or too deep are not flattering."

Polly, who admits she goes into a beauty lecture at the drop of a hat, takes a dim view of women who wear makeup so badly they look like Copa chorus girls.

"I wear a lot of makeup,"

she admitted, "but you can't tell because I know how to apply it so that the look is natural."

"The trick with foundation is to massage it in. Keep moving it until there's virtually nothing left. This is the way to correct skin tone and even up blemishes. Then, when you're finished, fold a tissue and press it over the face to pick up any excess gathered in lines."

"When it comes to makeup, many women need an eraser. They apply it with too heavy a hand."

The first thing you notice when you look at Polly are her magnificent blue eyes and long lashes.

"The lashes are not mine but they're my own, in a manner of speaking," she said. "I flew 19,000 miles to train Korean workers to make these lashes so they'd look natural. They're not uniform in length because real lashes aren't. But the real trick is the transparent lash band. It's flexible so the lashes are easy to apply, and it's strong."

To apply false lashes so they look totally natural, Polly suggests these tricks:

Give your own lashes a coat of mascara so they'll blend in with the falsies.

Apply glue to the tip of a toothpick, then run the tip over the band of the lashes, applying glue in a thin line.

Raise your hand so that you can lower the lashes into place. Apply them first to the center of the lid, then quickly tack down the outer end, then the inner one.

Take a tweezer and squeeze your own lashes and the false one together. But take care, Polly warns. Be sure to hold the tweezer parallel to your eye.

Polly, who is married to Freddie Fields and has two daughters and a son, commutes between the family's Beverly Hills home and a New York apartment that's within walking distance of her executive suite in the Gulf & Western building. She is in New York at least once a month. That's when she and Freddy catch up on night life. At home, their social schedule is totally different.

"Weekends I drive a bus," she said. "It's a camper that sleeps the entire family."

You'd never think of Polly Bergen as a bus driver but, then, she's a woman, with many interests who tackles everything she does with determination and enthusiasm. Consequently she's a lady of many successes, big and small.

Rep. Wilson Sets Testimony At Kleindienst Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., a key figure in helping San Diego obtain next summer's Republican National Convention, will be the first witness Monday when expanded Senate hearings resume into the controversy around acting Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

Wilson was chosen to lead off by Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., shortly after the committee voted 8 to 7 Friday to broaden the scope of the hearings but limit their duration to April 20. In the week after that, the panel will submit to Senate Democratic leaders a report on Kleindienst's qualifications to be attorney general.

The hearings, which so far have dealt with the charge that an ITT convention pledge was linked to settlement of three antitrust cases, now also will cover allegations by Life magazine that Kleindienst, as deputy attorney general, failed to act after learning that the U.S. attorney in San Diego was thwarting federal investigations of personal friends and political supporters of President Nixon.

Wilson's home district is San Diego. But he most likely will be queried on his role in the city's getting the GOP convention and his conversations with ITT officials about the conglomerate's financial commitment.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., who sought the hearings expansion and wanted them to run indefinitely, has said there is the possibility of three counts of perjury on the part of three ITT officials.

He has referred to sworn testimony and affidavits of Harold S. Geneen, ITT president, W.R. Merriam, head of the corporation's Washington office, and Dita D. Beard, the ailing ITT lobbyist.

Dorcas Class Holds Meeting And Luncheon

A covered-dish luncheon preceded the first meeting of the club year of Dorcas Class, Calvary United Methodist Church, in the church basement. Attending were 10 members and Mrs. Alice Petty who was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Petty is the mother of the Rev. Roy Osborn.

Mrs. Annette Lape, president, presided over the business session. Mrs. Ruth Waple and Mrs. Francis Davis were appointed to serve on the flower committee. Discussion was held concerning a garage sale to be held June 16th in the back yard of Mrs. Talmer Wise, 146 E. Franklin St. The class was asked to remember with cards those whose birthdays are in April.

Mrs. Opal Betz gave Scripture reading on prayer for devotions. Each member gave a short prayer in closing the meeting.

The next meeting will be May 3rd at the home of Mrs. Wise.

AAUW Literature Group To Meet

AAUW Literature Study Group will meet 8 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Hal Whitfield, 670 Garden Parkway.

Mrs. Ray Cairns will lead the discussion on the book "The Gentleman From San Francisco And Other Short Stories" by Bunin.

Starring In A New Career

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

People have been asking for Polly Bergen's autograph for years — but not any more! Now when they recognize the dazzling brunette in a restaurant or on the street, they have a new approach.

"They want to know how to put on false lashes," she said "or what to do about dry skin or blackheads. I have a new image! Only five years ago I was an entertainer. Now people know me as a beauty authority."

President of her own cosmetic empire, Polly is as successful in her new role as she was as an award-winning actress and popular recording star. It may be because, in manner of speaking, beauty has always been her business.

"In the entertainment field," she said, "your face is your fortune. I've been using makeup since I toddled onto a stage at age 4."

A personal beauty problem, dry skin, launched her cosmetic career. She asked a chemist to develop a special formula for her and, after 17 tries, he hit on one that worked like magic. The secret ingredient? Oil of the turtle.

When Polly mentioned the formula during a TV interview, three hundred department stores phoned the station to request the product and a beauty business was born. Now, as part of Gulf & Western Industries, her company markets a complete line of treatment, fragrance and makeup products, all of them carrying her personal stamp of approval.

"I think of the things that make beauty care simple, then I work on developing them," Polly said as she fingered her latest product, lip coloring in a brush.

"I got the idea for this from the felt marker pens," she said. "But you can't get lipstick to flow like ink, so we experimented and developed a brush that comes out of the case coated with lip coloring and ready to use. There's oil of turtle in the formula, so, in addition to coloring, it helps prevent flaky, peeling lips, too."

The lip coloring will come in a wide range of shades that are vivid but almost see-through.

"After 30, a woman's face needs a lift," she pointed out. "Shades that are too pale or too deep are not flattering." Polly, who admits she goes into a beauty lecture at the drop of a hat, takes a dim view of women who wear makeup so badly they look like Copa chorus girls.

"I wear a lot of makeup,"

she admitted, "but you can't tell because I know how to apply it so that the look is natural."

"The trick with foundation is to massage it in. Keep moving it until there's virtually nothing left. This is the way to correct skin tone and even up blemishes. Then, when you're finished, fold a tissue and press it over the face to pick up any excess gathered in lines."

"When it comes to makeup, many women need an eraser. They apply it with too heavy a hand."

The first thing you notice when you look at Polly are her magnificent blue eyes and long lashes.

"The lashes are not mine but they're my own, in a manner of speaking," she said. "I flew 19,000 miles to train Korean workers to make these lashes so they'd look natural. They're not uniform in length because real lashes aren't. But the real trick is the transparent lash band. It's flexible so the lashes are easy to apply, and it's strong."

To apply false lashes so they look totally natural, Polly suggests these tricks:

Give your own lashes a coat of mascara so they'll blend in with the falsies.

Apply glue to the tip of a toothpick, then run the tip over the band of the lashes, applying glue in a thin line.

Raise your hand so that you can lower the lashes into place. Apply them first to the center of the lid, then quickly tack down the outer end, then the inner one.

Take a tweezer and squeeze your own lashes and the false one together. But take care, Polly warns. Be sure to hold the tweezer parallel to your eye.

Polly, who is married to Freddie Fields and has two daughters and a son, commutes between the family's Beverly Hills home and a New York apartment that's within walking distance of her executive suite in the Gulf & Western building. She is in New York at least once a month. That's when she and Freddie catch up on night life. At home, their social schedule is totally different.

"Weekends I drive a bus," she said. "It's a camper that sleeps the entire family."

You'd never think of Polly Bergen as a bus driver but, then, she's a woman, with many interests who tackles everything she does with determination and enthusiasm. Consequently she's a lady of many successes, big and small.

Rep. Wilson Sets Testimony At Kleindienst Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., a key figure in helping San Diego obtain next summer's Republican National Convention, will be the first witness Monday when expanded Senate hearings resume into the controversy around acting Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

Wilson was chosen to lead off by Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., shortly after the committee voted 8 to 7 Friday to broaden the scope of the hearings but limit their duration to April 20. In the week after that, the panel will submit to Senate Democratic leaders a report on Kleindienst's qualifications to be attorney general.

The hearings, which so far have dealt with the charge that an ITT convention pledge was linked to settlement of three antitrust cases, now also will cover allegations by Life magazine that Kleindienst, as deputy attorney general, failed to act after learning that the U.S. attorney in San Diego was thwarting federal investigations of personal friends and political supporters of President Nixon.

Wilson's home district is San Diego. But he most likely will be queried on his role in the city's getting the GOP convention and his conversations with ITT officials about the conglomerate's financial commitment.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., who sought the hearings expansion and wanted them to run indefinitely, has said there is the possibility of three counts of perjury on the part of three ITT officials.

He has referred to sworn testimony and affidavits of Harold S. Geneen, ITT president, W.R. Merriam, head of the corporation's Washington office, and Dita D. Beard, the ailing ITT lobbyist.

Footprints In Snow Bring Robbery Arrest

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Toledo police followed footprints in the snow from a service station that had been held up to a nearby house and arrested an 18-year-old on robbery charges.

Vernon Anderson was charged with armed robbery after being seized in the house. Police said they found $50 believed taken from the station in the house.

No Movement Reported In Baseball Strike

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Where does the baseball strike go from here?

"It's up to the owners to make a counter-proposal so we can start bargaining," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the striking Major League Baseball Players Association.

"I'm going home," said John Gaherin, representing the club owners.

The latest exchange occurred Friday night when the 24 owners unanimously rejected an offer by the players to start the season while pension negotiations resumed for up to three weeks, with an impartial arbitrator to be called in if no settlement is reached.

At the same time, the players' group announced plans to file unfair labor practice charges against the owners with the National Labor Relations Board. Dick Moss, counsel for the players' association, charged that at least three players have lost their jobs because of their activities with the group.

He declined to name them, but The Associated Press learned that one was pitcher Joe Horlen, recently given his unconditional release by the Chicago White Sox.

Gaherin called the proposal to submit the dispute to arbitration "particularly offensive" to the owners. He then suggested that the players open the season while "the parties, with the assistance of such experts as may be necessary, continue to negotiate in good faith."

He said "such experts" could be actuaries, adding, "We don't consider arbitrators to be experts." Answered Miller, "We offered that if they like, the arbitrator could be an actuary."

"Since they haven't bargained in good faith yet, there's no reason to believe they would do so now," Miller said in rejecting that offer.

Gaherin also suggested that the players be secretly polled again on a strike. He said he "has received communication from almost every major league club indicating that some, and probably the majority, of the players want to return to the field."

"We believe the players generally agree with us and that they would, if given the chance to express themselves privately, vote to honor their individual contracts and play ball."

Miller said he has "talked to the player representatives constantly" since the strike began last Saturday, curtailing spring training, "and the sentiment I get is that the players are solid and getting angrier by the minute."

"I believed that if the owners were polled again you'd find the biggest split you ever saw."

Meanwhile, today was the fourth day of the baseball season—and for the fourth day, there was no baseball.

Nets Increase Lead Over Colonels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Nets have become the surprise team in the American Basketball Association playoffs.

Led by Johnny Roche and Johnny Beaum they rose to unbelievable heights in again upsetting the Kentucky Colonels 100-92 Friday night to take a commanding 3-1 lead over the East Division champions in their best-of-seven series.

And the underdog Nets did it without their high scoring Rick Barry who came down with the flu before the game.

In the other ABA playoff scheduled the Utah Stars swept the Dallas Chaps in four straight, 103-99, and advanced to the final of the West Division.

The Boston Celtics took a 3-2 lead over Atlanta by beating the Hawks 124-114 in their Eastern Conference semifinals in the National Basketball Association. It was the only playoff game scheduled in the NBA.

Roche and Beaum combined for 63 points in leading the Nets to their surprise triumph before a record 14,896 at the new Nassau Coliseum on Long Island.

Roche threw in 38 points, 17 of them in the last quarter. He tallied the last eight points for the Nets to break a 92-92 tie.

As for Beaum, who started in place of Barry, he canned 25 points, including 15 in the third quarter that kept the Nets close to the Colonels who led 73-71 starting the last period.

Dan Issel scored 27 points to lead the Colonels who had been warned by coach Joe Mullaney "not to let down because of Barry."

Henry Finkel, former Dayton star, came off the bench and threw in some crucial baskets from long range that kept the Celtics ahead of Atlanta at the Boston Garden. His shots thwarted an Atlanta rally.

As Richie Guerin, Atlanta coach, put it: "When they took Dave Cowens out with five fouls they were just two points up. We had everything going for us, but then Finkel made those crucial baskets from outside and that really hurt us."

John Havlicek was high for Boston with 27. Walt Bellamy, Pete Maravich and Lou Hudson each got 21 for the Hawks.

Ron Boone led Utah with 21 points against the Dallas Chaps who were sparked by Donnie Freeman's 30 points.

In the West Division ABA final Utah will meet the winner of the Indiana-Denver series that now stands at 2-2.

If the Nets again beat Kentucky in an afternoon game today they will meet the Virginia Squires in the ABA East Division final.

Denver plays at Indiana tonight. There are no NBA playoffs scheduled today.

Tiger Track Team Cancels At Newark

Due to the cold weather, Circleville's track team will not compete in the Newark Invitational Meet today.

Circleville will be back on the cinders 4 p.m. Tuesday when the Tigers host Athens in a meet originally scheduled at the Athens track.

Mt. Pleasant Swim Group Revamps League Format

The Mt. Pleasant Swim League, of which the Circleville "Piranha" Swim Team is a member, held a special meeting recently. They revamped their meet schedule, added two new teams, and consolidated two teams.

New teams added to the league include the Newark YMCA, and the Columbus Hilltop YMCA. In addition, the teams from Tiki Swim Club and Miller Pool Swim Club have consolidated to form one team, the "Lancaster Municipal" Swim Team.

In addition to Circleville, Newark, Columbus, and Lancaster Municipal, the League consists of teams from Groveport, Valley View, Lancaster Country Club and Chillicothe Country Club.

Besides adding the new clubs to the League, it was voted to change the distance for all swimmers in the 13 to 14 years age group and the 15 to 17 age group to 100 yards, and to add 200-Yard Individual Medley events to all age groups other than 9-10 age group and the 8 and under age group. The changes will make a dual meeting increase from 52 to 64 events.

Circleville officials, facing the problem of completely overhauling their personnel to meet the 12 new events, are looking for new swimmers of all ages, boys and girls, with any swimming or competitive swimming experience.

"We almost must limit our openings to those boys and girls who know something about the four strokes," Swim Team Coaches said. Anyone who knows at least two of the four strokes will be welcome to try out for the team at any time within the next two weeks. Interested swimmers should call the Circleville "Piranha" swim team coach, Jim Shea, at 474-3650 or 474-6242.

Jim Ryan Plans Own 'Rehabilitation'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Jim Ryan doesn't intend to follow his doctor's orders, but he believes he has found the key to regaining the supremacy he held six years ago over the world's track elite in the 880 and mile run.

"I don't agree with the doctor that I need rest," said Ryan after finishing strongly to capture a special 880 run Friday night in the 45th Texas Relays. "I don't think that's it." Resting won't help.

"I've been putting too much pressure on myself. I've been beating myself. What I need is more speed work. I feel I've got that down now."

Floridians Not Coming To Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Promoters attempting to bring the Miami Floridians of the American Basketball Association to Cincinnati to replace the departing Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association scrapped negotiations Friday after the prime financial backer stepped out of the picture.

Attorney Ronald Grinker told a news conference that without Cincinnati developer Gerald Robinson's money he had ceased negotiations. However, he said he still has the contracts to complete the deal and is interested in hearing from any other potential investors.

"Mr. Zack said I can change the names on the contract if I want to. All I have to do is fill in the names and the team is ours," he said. David Zack is the negotiator in New York for the Floridians.

Robinson said Thursday he had decided not to invest his money in the ABA team to replace Cincinnati's NBA franchise.

Grinker noted that the Cincinnati Gardens, where the Royals played, had raised the rent. Brothers Max and Jeremy Jacobs of Buffalo, N.Y., who own the Royals, also still own the Gardens.

Grinker indicated that the purchase price of the Floridians as it was under discussion would have ranged from $1.25 million in cash to about $2 million in a long-term transaction.

Set Bristol Qualifier

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP)—Some of the nation's top stock car drivers were set to have another go at qualifying today for Sunday's Southeastern 500 NASCAR Grand National race.

Time trials in which the first 10 positions in the 30-car field were to be filled were postponed Friday because of rain after at least three drivers had been clocked in excess of 100 miles per hour on the .533-mile national Speedway.

The fastest unofficial times were recorded by two of the race favorites, Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., and Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala.

Petty, NASCAR's first $1 million winner, was clocked at 105.464 m.p.h. in his 1972 Plymouth. Allison, this year's leading money winner, had a fast lap of 105.434 m.p.h. in his 1972 Chevrolet.

Baltimore Clippers Stop Cleveland, 6-0

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Terry Reardon of the Baltimore Clippers couldn't see much difference between his team's 6-0 victory over Cleveland Friday and the 5-3 loss to the Barons the night before.

"I thought we played well in both games," Reardon said, after the Clippers tied the American Hockey League playoff series at one game apiece Friday night. "The only difference was we made the most of our chances this time."

Nicklaus Concentration Up, Holds On To Masters Lead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, halfway home to a fourth Masters golf title and the first leg of a Grand Slam, admits that three years ago he became so complacent and disinterested that he was on the verge of giving up the game.

The untimely death of his father and a 1970 victory in the British Open, he said, snapped him back to life.

"My father lived to see me play," the 32-year-old superstar from Columbus, Ohio, said solemnly Friday after shooting a second-round 71 for 139 that gave him a one-stroke lead over gray-haired Paul Harney after 36 holes over the Augusta National course.

"In my early years on the tour, I was successful. Maybe things came too easy. In 1968 and 1969, I half lost interest. I couldn't get keyed up."

"I was winning money but I wasn't enjoying it. I wasn't working on my game. I was playing sloppy. I had no desire at all to progress."

"Then my father died in February 1970. I asked myself, 'What are we down here for?'

What is life all about?' I began working harder. Then I won the British Open at St. Andrews. Everything suddenly changed."

Cancel 8th At Lebanon

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The eighth race at Lebanon Raceway Friday night was canceled after racing was held up for 90 minutes when drivers refused to race their sulkies because of slippery track conditions.

Racing resumed after the track was scraped. About 1.35 inches of rain caused the slippery condition. One race had to be canceled in order to finish racing by 11:45 p.m. track officials said.

Speedy Sweet won the featured invitational trotting mile in 2:14 and paid $14.60, $4.20 and $2.20. King Storm was second, $3.00 and $2.20. Grays Dream was third, $2.20.

Greed Street and Loud and Clear, 3-3, paid $54.80 in the daily double.

The crowd of 1,366 wagered a low $64,195.

Rick Rhoads Leads Magnolia Golf Clash

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Rick Rhoads says he got his second round 67 in the Magnolia Classic because "my irons were very accurate and I putted well again."

His three-under-par 67 Friday, coupled with his opening round 66, gave Rhoads a 133 total—seven under par—and a one-stroke lead going into today's round.

"Now I enjoy the game more than I ever did. I have more desire than ever to win."

This newfound flaming desire plus a weight-reducing program that has turned the blond bomber into a trim, handsome, 185-pound athlete has projected Nicklaus to the undisputed pinnacle of golf, the all-time leading money collector, winner of 11 major championships and recognized by many as the greatest player in history.

Nicklaus spoke feelingly of his inconsistent attitudes after holding firm to his lead in the Masters on a gray, gusty day that witnessed a mild collapse on the part of Arnold Palmer and Sam Snead and the near exit of voluble Lee Trevino, 1971 Player of the Year.

The 59-year-old Snead, one stroke back of Nicklaus after the first round, blew a 1½-foot putt on the ninth hole, proceeded to bogey three holes in succession and take a fat 75 for 144.

Bob Foster KO's

Vincente Rondon In 2nd

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Vicente Rondon was a bloody, beaten fighter and Bob Foster secretly rooted for the Venezuelan fighter to get back to his feet.

"Two rounds wasn't enough," said Foster. "I wanted to punish Rondon for 15 rounds . . . to beat the dumbest, scariest boxer I've ever seen until his eyes were swollen shut."

Foster was a cocky, "I'll fight anybody" champion after brutally settling the light heavyweight title Friday night with a second round knockout at Miami Beach Convention Hall.

AFL-CIO Joins Suit On Wages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO said Friday it has joined in a federal-court suit arguing that 7 million families making less than $7,000 a year should be totally exempted from federal wage controls.

"That family has a grocery budget of $32 a week. It has a rent budget of about $92.50 a month including heat and utilities," said the 13-million member labor federation. The father of the typical family of four earning less than $7,000 annually can afford a new suit of clothes only every four years, it added.

The AFL-CIO and its president, George Meany, joined in a suit originally filed by one of its member unions, the International Union of Electrical Workers, claiming that President Nixon's Cost of Living Council thwarted the will of Congress in setting the exemption from wage controls at $1.90 an hour. The suit says everybody earning $3.35 an hour or less should be exempted. The $3.35 figure adds up to an annual salary of $6,960.

It said Congress, in the Economic Stabilization Act authorizing wage-price controls, specified that workers with "substandard" wages or members of "the working poor" should be exempted from all wage controls.

The Cost of Living Council, in setting the $1.90 exemption, said only pay scales less than the federal minimum wage of $1.60 per hour were "substandard." It added that the government "poverty" income figure was $3,968 per year, about $1.40 per hour.

Editor Gets Dynamite

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael O'Donoghue, editor of the humor magazine National Lampoon, received in his mail a package containing nine sticks of dynamite and a note saying, "Here, have some fun."

Instead of notifying police Thursday, O'Donoghue telephoned a demolitions expert friend for advice, then carted the novel present around to other offices for his friends to see.

Police learned of the danger an hour later and evacuated most of the office building in Manhattan. Pedestrian and vehicle traffic was rerouted while the bomb squad removed the dynamite.

There was no triggering device on the dynamite, but a police spokesman said that if it had exploded, "it certainly would have knocked out the entire fourth floor section of the building."

O'Donoghue noted that he had received numerous "gag and crank letters" in the past as a result of the satiric and humorous articles in the monthly magazine.

Manager Backs Regionalism

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's new city manager said Thursday he believes "regionalism is absolutely necessary" to attacking urban problems.

E. Robert Turner, 46, will assume the $40,000 a year post June 1 in a city surrounded by 35 incorporated communities and 12 urban townships in Hamilton County.

Turner, since 1968, has been executive director of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, a seven-county regional planning authority which includes Detroit.

Gov. Rockefeller Praises President

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who worked against President Nixon's nomination in 1960 and 1968, says his view of Nixon has changed.

In an interview taped Thursday for showing here Sunday, Rockefeller said he criticized Nixon years ago as not having "administrative experience," but his opinion now is different.

Editor Gets Dynamite

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael
O'Donoghue, editor of the humor magazine National Lampoon, received in his mail a package containing nine sticks of dynamite and a note saying,
"Here, have some fun."

Instead of notifying police Thursday, O'Donoghue telephoned a demolition expert friend for advice, then carted the novel present around to other offices for his friends to see.

Police learned of the danger an hour later and evacuated most of the office building in Manhattan. Pedestrian and vehicle traffic was rerouted while the bomb squad removed the dynamite.

There was no triggering device on the dynamite, but a police spokesman said that if it had exploded, "it certainly would have knocked out the entire fourth floor section of the building."

O'Donoghue noted that he had received numerous "gag and crank letters" in the past as a result of the satiric and humorous articles in the monthly magazine.

Manager Backs Regionalism

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's new city manager said Thursday he believes "regionalism is absolutely necessary" to attacking urban problems.

E. Robert Turner, 46, will assume the $40,000 a year post
June 1 in a city surrounded by 35 incorporated communities and 12 urban townships in Hamilton County.

Turner, since 1968, has been executive director of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, a seven-county regional planning authority which includes Detroit.

Gov. Rockefeller Praises President

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov.
Nelson A. Rockefeller, who worked against President Nixon's nomination in 1960 and 1968, says his view of Nixon has changed.

In an interview taped Thursday for showing here Sunday,
Rockefeller said he criticized Nixon years ago as not having "administrative experience," but his opinion now is different.

County Units Investigate 31 Car Accidents Friday

Only two motorists were injured in 31 auto accidents investigated by the city police, the Ohio State Highway Patrol and the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department after rain changed to sleet and snow about 3 p.m. Friday.

The weather gave an indication of its intentions Friday when a cold drizzle switched to sleet and accompanied with thunder and lightning and then to snow.

The county only recorded about a half inch of snowfall, but it was enough to cause havoc for area drivers. City police handled one accident believed to be caused by icy roads as an unknown driver plowed into a parked car on W. Main St., just east of Western Ave. It is officially listed as a hit-skip crash.

ONLY two accidents investigated by the Highway

Patrol were in Pickaway County and neither caused any injuries to those involved.

One occurred in the northwest corner of the county on the interstate system, where the driver slid his vehicle along the road and median with slight damage to the car.

David Bond, Circleville, was driver of the auto in the second accident. He slid his car on Route 23 and went into a fence near Deer Creek Auto Parts yard.

All accidents investigated by the Sheriff's Department were non-injury, according to Deputy Bob Hoover, who commended motorists for reducing speed and driving with more caution on the slippery roads.

The Sheriff's Department responded to an accident 3:07 p.m. Friday when two cars sideswiped while rounding a curve on Route 56 east of Route 159.

At 3:08 p.m., a single car crashed into a fence on Long St. in Ashville.

A CAR spun out of control on Route 104 at the Fox Post Office 3:47 p.m.

Slippery bridge surface is blamed for a one car crash 3:50 p.m. on the Little Walnut Creek Bridge at Route 23.

One car crashed into a fence on Route 56, just east of the city, 4:05 p.m.

A car spun into a field adjacent to Dreshbach Church off the Circleville - Tarlton Road 4:25 p.m.

Three cars were involved in a minor accident on Route 23 south, in front of the RCA plant.

The frozen Little Walnut Creek bridge on Route 23 was again the scene of another accident 4:47 p.m.

TWO accidents were reported at 5:05 p.m., the first when a car crashed into a fence on the Ringgold Southern Road, south of Route 22, and the second on Route 22 west when a car slipped from the roadway.

A school bus slid from the road on Stonerock Road and the Dawson-Yankeeown Pike 5:14 p.m.

A driver lost control of his car on Griest Road and Route 22 east 6:16 p.m. and on Route 159, north of Kingston at 6:17 p.m.

A car spun out of control on the Florence Chapel Pike 6:28 p.m.

The department responded to a single car crash 7:09 a.m. Saturday when a driver spun off the Harrisburg - Fairfield Road, just west of Duval.

In addition, two motorists with stalled cars were aided.

The Sheriff's Department reports most main roads are clear of snow and ice, but arteries are still slippery. Main concern for traffic control purposes now appears to be the Scioto River, which is expected to escape its banks this afternoon.

LBJ Faces More Tests For Chest Pains

Doctors Won't Say Trouble Heart Attack

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, resting comfortably after an attack of severe chest pains, is to undergo comprehensive tests today as doctors seek the cause of his ailment.

The 63-year-old former chief executive was rushed to the University of Virginia Hospital here before daylight Friday and was taken to the hospital's cardiac care unit.

Doctors attending Johnson said late Friday the chest pains had subsided but did not say whether the former president had suffered a heart attack.

Johnson has a history of heart trouble and had a near fatal heart attack in 1955 when he was a senator from Texas.

A hospital spokesman said late Friday night that Johnson's condition was stable, that he was "resting comfortably" and that he was listening to a radio although he remained in the cardiac care unit.

Dr. John Willis Hurst, a heart specialist from the University of Georgia Medical Center, was flown here by special jet to treat Johnson. Hurst, who treated the former president in 1955, remained at Johnson's bedside, throughout the day.

The former president's wife, Lady Bird, and his older daughter, Lynda Bird Robb, were also with Johnson.

Secret Service agents were on guard in the hospital, and hospital employees had instructions not to furnish any information concerning Johnson. But one hospital employee said the former president appeared to have been in severe pain when he arrived.

check of passengers against a "profile" of hijacker characteristics. The plane was Flight 855, originating in Newark, N.J.

For three hours the plane sat at the far end of Runway 19-Left, about a mile from main terminal at San Francisco International Airport, while the airline provided what the hijacker had demanded—four parachutes, fuel for 4,000 miles of flight and $500,000. The money in two suitcases was placed on a ramp about 100 feet from the plane and picked up shortly after 7 p.m. PST.

The passengers and one stewardess then were allowed to leave the plane and it took off at 7:41 PST, headed east.

The Air Force said during the evening that F106 Delta Daggers at Hamilton Air Force Base had been alerted, but it refused to confirm they had been sent to follow the airliner.

After leaving San Francisco, the pilot was ordered to fly over southern Nevada. There was an erroneous report from the FBI that the hijacker had bailed out over Wilson Creek, Nev.

The three-engine plane then zigzagged over southern Utah as the pilot was given several directions by the hijacker. The pilot radioed that the hijacker bailed out at 11:25 p.m. MST near Provo. The plane continued to Salt Lake City where all five crew members were reported safe upon landing.

The pilot, Gerry D. Hearn of Los Angeles, then took off in another plane to drop flares over a marshy area just south of Utah Lake near Provo and about 20 miles from the Wasatch Mountains.

Some 200 officers took part in the early stages of the search. Helicopters from Hill AFB, Utah, also were pressed into use.

Crewmen periodically dropped flares, each of which lighted several square miles.

Roadblocks were established near the Provo airport and 25 miles either side of Provo, on Interstate 15, a north-south arterial.

Subject of the search was a white male, 5-foot-6, thin, aged 25 to 30. Authorities said the name on his ticket was T. Johnson.

Woman In California Hamlet Known As 'Highway Angel'

POLLARD FLAT, Calif. (AP) — Evelyn Wood is known as the highway angel for a remote stretch of freeway that cuts through the tiny Northern California hamlet of Pollard Flat.

"There's no way of knowing how many lives she's actually saved," said California Highway Patrol Lt. W.H. Curry.

But he said she has pulled dozens of people from burning wrecks, given first aid, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and directed traffic while waiting for ambulances and highway patrolmen to arrive at the scenes of accidents.

"I'm just here and when people need help, it's given," said Mrs. Wood, 48. She is the owner of a small cafe in this community of 17 persons along Interstate 5—the main highway between California and Oregon—230 miles north of San Francisco.

"If more people helped one another, it would probably be a better place to live," she added. "It only takes a few minutes to help somebody, and you might need help yourself sometime."

"The cafe she and her husband Nick run is the only place with a telephone for miles in either direction," said Curry. "Motorists will run in there and want to report an accident and Mrs. Wood'll call the patrol and then proceed out to the scene to see if there's anything she can do herself."

The highway patrol presented Mrs. Wood with a community service award last week for her help during her eight years in Pollard Flat.

Shasta County Deputy Sheriff Steve King describes the role Mrs. Wood plays at the scene of an accident this way: "I first met Evelyn Wood on a cold wet day in January of 1966. I talked to the person directing traffic around an accident and found much to my surprise it was a dark haired lady underneath all that rain gear."

After learning from Mrs. Wood that she had already notified an ambulance, the highway patrol and a towing company about the accident, King said his first thought was, "What am I doing here? Everything is well under control."

Armed civilians and troops patrolled Zanzibar's streets during the night and armed guards were placed at public buildings on the island, located in the Indian Ocean 20 miles off the African mainland. Communications with the mainland were cut.

Karume, a 67-year-old former merchant seaman, came to power following a revolution against the sultan of Zanzibar in 1964, 32 days after the island gained independence from Britain.

Zanzibar and Tanganyika joined a few months later to form the United Republic of Tanzania. Karume, Tanzania's first vice president, set up an authoritarian and leftist regime that went far beyond the milder socialist policies of Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere. Relations between Nyerere's government and Zanzibar have been strained and the island has gained considerable autonomy in running its internal affairs.

Father Is Held For Carrying Gun In Courtroom

CINCINNATI (AP) — A father who said he would rather shoot his son than see him sentenced to the Cincinnati Workhouse was scheduled to appear in court himself today on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon into court.

Abramo F. Lanza, 59, was held under $10,000 bond after being overpowered in the Hamilton County Municipal Courtroom Friday by Cincinnati Police.

His son, Mario Lanza, 19, was later sentenced to 30 days in jail upon conviction of a second offense of indecent exposure.

Young Lanza had been on probation. His father told Probation Officer Thomas Uhl of his plan to shoot his son if he was convicted. Uhl notified court officers, who made the arrest.

City Police List Report For March

Circleville Police Department has released the departmental activity report for the month of March.

They handled a total of 131 offense reports during the month bringing the total for the year to 341. This compared with a total of 62 offense reports handled during March, 1971.

Seven felony arrests were made during March, compared to 17 arrests during the same period last year. This brings the 1972 total to 31.

Misdemeanor arrests made during the month were 37, compared to 33 last year. The total for 1972 is now 91.

Traffic arrests for the month amounted to 82 with 38 being the figure for March, 1971. Total traffic arrests for the year now stands at 135.

Accident reports for the month number 43 with eight injuries and brings the total accidents handled this year to 143.

Pickaway Grange

NEBRASKA GRANGE

The Pickaway County Grange Youth were guests at the regular April meeting of Nebraska Grange and presented the program under the direction of Mrs. Paul Dawson.

She used as her theme, "Smiles Are Your Grange Friends." Barbara McKenzie read an article, "A Little Smile" and the group sang "Smiles." Barbara and Bonnie Bolender conducted a skit, "I see A Bear." A reading, "Friendship" was given by Eddie Crites. Bob and Diane Lands entertained with a dialogue, "Two Chances." A vocal duet was presented by Brenda and Barbara Bolender, "Dear Hearts and Gentle People," accompanied by Bonnie Bolender. Harold Furniss presented an article, "What the Grange Means to Me." The Bolenders presented a telephone skit assisted by other grange members. Sister Dawson conducted an oral quiz on states and flowers. Bob Lands read a poem, "Just Smiling" and the program closed with group singing, "We Love the Grange."

During the business session, conducted by Worthy Master Ray Noecker, communications were read from the Red Cross extending thanks for past aid and the Blood Bank.

The charter was draped in memory of deceased member John Lanman. The May meeting will be the annual inspection by County Deputy Ernest Bidwell. The first degree will be exemplified by the officers. The baking and sewing contests will also be held under the direction of the chairman of Women's Activities, Mrs. Joseph Peters.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Waites, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Beers and Mr. and Mrs. John Brinker will serve on the May committee.

Silver Star Certificates were presented by Carl Bennett to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scothorn and Mrs. David Hedges for 25 years continuous membership in the Grange.

Refreshments were served in the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scothorn and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Berger.

County Units Investigate 31 Car Accidents Friday

Only two motorists were injured in 31 auto accidents investigated by the city police, the Ohio State Highway Patrol and the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department after rain changed to sleet and snow about 3 p.m. Friday.

The weather gave an indication of its intentions Friday when a cold drizzle switched to sleet and accompanied with thunder and lightning and then to snow.

The county only recorded about a half inch of snowfall, but it was enough to cause havoc for area drivers.

City police handled one accident believed to be caused by icy roads as an unknown driver plowed into a parked car on W. Main St., just east of Western Ave. It is officially listed as a hit-skip crash.

ONLY two accidents investigated by the Highway

Patrol were in Pickaway County and neither caused any injuries to those involved.

One occurred in the northwest corner of the county on the interstate system, where the driver slid his vehicle along the road and median with slight damage to the car.

David Bond, Circleville, was driver of the auto in the second accident. He slid his car on Route 23 and went into a fence near Deer Creek Auto Parts yard.

All accidents investigated by the Sheriff's Department were non-injury, according to Deputy Bob Hoover, who commended motorists for reducing speed and driving with more caution on the slippery roads.

The Sheriff's Department responded to an accident 3:07 p.m. Friday when two cars sideswiped while rounding a curve on Route 56 east of Route 159.

At 3:08 p.m., a single car crashed into a fence on Long St. in Ashville.

A CAR spun out of control on Route 104 at the Fox Post Office 3:47 p.m.

Slippery bridge surface is blamed for a one car crash 3:50 p.m. on the Little Walnut Creek Bridge at Route 23.

One car crashed into a fence on Route 56, just east of the city, 4:05 p.m.

A car spun into a field adjacent to Dreshbach Church off the Circleville - Turlington Road 4:25 p.m.

Three cars were involved in a minor accident on Route 23 south, in front of the RCA plant. The frozen Little Walnut Creek bridge on Route 23 was again the scene of another accident 4:47 p.m.

TWO accidents were reported at 5:05 p.m., the first when a car crashed into a fence on the Ringgold Southern Road, south of Route 22, and the second on Route 22 west when a car slipped from the roadway.

A school bus slid from the road on Stonerock Road and the Dawson-Yanketown Pike 5:14 p.m.

A driver lost control of his car on Griest Road and Route 22 east 6:16 p.m. and on Route 159, north of Kingston at 6:17 p.m.

A car spun out of control on the Florence Chapel Pike 6:28 p.m.

The department responded to a single car crash 7:09 a.m. Saturday when a driver spun off the Harrisburg - Fairfield Road, just west of Duval.

In addition, two motorists with stalled cars were aided.

The Sheriff's Department reports most main roads are clear of snow and ice, but arteries are still slippery. Main concern for traffic control purposes now appears to be the Scioto River, which is expected to escape its banks this afternoon.

Bird Brochure Available At Local SCS Office

Donald Archer, District Conservationist in Ohio for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS), recently announced release of a colorful new brochure, "Invite Birds to Your Home—Conservation Plantings for the Midwest."

The brochure, published by the SCS, describes and illustrates in color a number of birds as well as trees, shrubs and other plants that attract different birds. It suggests how to create a landscape design, describes the needs of various plants for sun, soil and water, and tells the plant foods preferred by many midwestern birds. The brochure stresses the natural attractions of trees, shrubs and vines that also enhance the home grounds.

Single copies of "Invite Birds to Your Home—Conservation Plantings for the Midwest," PA-982, are available from the Office of Information, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250. Copies are also available in limited quantities from the local soil and water conservation district office, 1140 N. Court St.

knight; Richard Davis, exalted ruler; Ernest Enoch, past exalted ruler; Gene Lindsey, treasurer; Larry Priest, esquire; Paul Hang, trustee; Paul Dean, inner guard; Dr. Robert Liggett, chaplain. Not present when the picture was taken was Dwight Weiler, secretary. Highlight of the evening was a presentation by the Elks Men's Chorus.

LBJ Faces More Tests For Chest Pains

Doctors Won't Say Trouble Heart Attack

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, resting comfortably after an attack of severe chest pains, is to undergo comprehensive tests today as doctors seek the cause of his ailment.

The 63-year-old former chief executive was rushed to the University of Virginia Hospital here before daylight Friday and was taken to the hospital's cardiac care unit.

Doctors attending Johnson said late Friday the chest pains had subsided but did not say whether the former president had suffered a heart attack.

Johnson has a history of heart trouble and had a near fatal heart attack in 1955 when he was a senator from Texas.

A hospital spokesman said late Friday night that Johnson's condition was stable, that he was "resting comfortably" and that he was listening to a radio although he remained in the cardiac care unit.

Dr. John Willis Hurst, a heart specialist from the University of Georgia Medical Center, was flown here by special jet to treat Johnson. Hurst, who treated the former president in 1955, remained at Johnson's bedside, throughout the day.

The former president's wife, Lady Bird, and his older daughter, Lynda Bird Robb, were also with Johnson.

Secret Service agents were on guard in the hospital, and hospital employees had instructions not to furnish any information concerning Johnson. But one hospital employee said the former president appeared to have been in severe pain when he arrived.

John Warner Named Head Of U.S. Navy

WASHINGTON (AP) — John William Warner, if his nomination as secretary of the Navy gets Senate approval, will be the first man in that post who has served in both the Navy and the Marines.

The 45-year-old Warner, nominated Friday by President Nixon, is said to have an affable, low-key style that has earned the devotion of his staff during his three years as under-secretary of the Navy.

During World War II, Warner dropped out of high school and joined the Navy. The young enlisted man, a strapping six-footer, remained in the United States for the duration of the war.

He earned an engineering degree from Washington and Lee and again dropped out of school in 1959 when war broke out in Korea. This time he left the University of Virginia Law School to join the Marines. He served as a communications officer with a fighter unit, but saw little combat.

He left the service in 1952 with the rank of captain and returned to law school. Subsequently, after a brief period in private practice, Warner joined the Justice Department and served as a trial lawyer in the U.S. Attorney's office in Washington.

During this time he met his wife, Catherine C. Mellon, daughter of Paul Mellon, the millionaire philanthropist.

Warner's career took a new turn in 1960 when he joined the campaign staff of Vice President Richard Nixon. He again worked for Nixon in 1968 and when the Republicans assumed office Warner was named under-secretary of the Navy.

check of passengers against a "profile" of hijacker characteristics. The plane was Flight 855, originating in Newark, N.J.

For three hours the plane sat at the far end of Runway 19-Left, about a mile from main terminal at San Francisco International Airport, while the airline provided what the hijacker had demanded—four parachutes, fuel for 4,000 miles, and $500,000. The money in two suitcases was placed on a ramp about 100 feet from the plane and picked up shortly after 7 p.m. PST.

The passengers and one stewardess then were allowed to leave the plane and it took off at 7:41 PST, headed east.

The Air Force said during the evening that F106 Delta Daggers at Hamilton Air Force Base had been alerted, but it refused to confirm they had been sent to follow the airliner.

After leaving San Francisco, the pilot was ordered to fly over southern Nevada. There was an erroneous report from the FBI that the hijacker had bailed out over Wilson Creek, Nev.

The three-engine plane then zigzagged over southern Utah as the pilot was given several directions by the hijacker.

The pilot radioed that the hijacker bailed out at 11:25 p.m. MST near Provo. The plane continued to Salt Lake City where all five crew members were reported safe upon landing.

The pilot, Gerry D. Hearn of Los Angeles, then took off in another plane to drop flares over a marshy area just south of Utah Lake near Provo and about 20 miles from the Wasatch Mountains.

Some 200 officers took part in the early stages of the search. Helicopters from Hill AFB, Utah, also were pressed into use.

Crewmen periodically dropped flares, each of which lighted several square miles. Roadblocks were established near the Provo airport and 25 miles either side of Provo, on Interstate 15, a north-south arterial.

Subject of the search was a white male, 5-foot-6, thin, aged 25 to 30. Authorities said the name on his ticket was T. Johnson.

Woman In California Hamlet Known As 'Highway Angel'

POLLARD FLAT, Calif. (AP) — Evelyn Wood is known as the highway angel for a remote stretch of freeway that cuts through the tiny Northern California hamlet of Pollard Flat.

"There's no way of knowing how many lives she's actually saved," said California Highway Patrol Lt. W.H. Curry.

But he said she has pulled dozens of people from burning wrecks, given first aid, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and directed traffic while waiting for ambulances and highway patrolmen to arrive at the scenes of accidents.

Zanzibar Ruler Assassinated

No Organized Plot Found

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Sheikh Abeid Karume, the leftist ruler of Zanzibar, was assassinated Friday and a top member of his ruling Revolutionary Council was seriously wounded, the Tanzanian government reported today.

A special broadcast by Radio Tanzania, the official government voice, said one assassin was shot and three others escaped after Karume was gunned down Friday evening.

Karume was said to have died almost immediately. Sources said the incident appeared to be an isolated political assassination and not part of an organized attempt to overthrow the Zanzibar government.

Armed civilians and troops patrolled Zanzibar's streets during the night and armed guards were placed at public buildings on the island, located in the Indian Ocean 29 miles off the African mainland. Communications with the mainland were cut.

Karume, a 67-year-old former merchant seaman, came to power following a revolution against the sultan of Zanzibar in 1964, 32 days after the island gained independence from Britain.

Zanzibar and Tanganyika joined a few months later to form the United Republic of Tanzania. Karume, Tanzania's first vice president, set up an authoritarian and leftist regime that went far beyond the milder socialist policies of Tanganyika President Julius Nyerere. Relations between Nyerere's government and Zanzibar have been strained and the island has gained considerable autonomy in running its internal affairs.

NEBRASKA GRANGE

The Pickaway County Grange Youth were guests at the regular April meeting of Nebraska Grange and presented the program under the direction of Mrs. Paul Dawson.

She used as her theme, "Smiles Are Your Grange Friends." Barbara McKenzie read an article, "A Little Smile" and the group sang "Smiles." Barbara and Bonnie Bolender conducted a skit, "I see A Bear." A reading, "Friendship" was given by Eddie Crites. Bob and Diane Lands entertained with a dialogue, "Two Chances." A vocal duet was presented by Brenda and Barbara Bolender, "Dear Hearts and Gentle People," accompanied by Bonnie Bolender. Harold Furniss presented an article, "What the Grange Means to Me." The Bolenders presented a telephone skit assisted by other grange members. Sister Dawson conducted an oral quiz on states and flowers. Bob Lands read a poem, "Just Smiling" and the program closed with group singing, "We Love the Grange."

During the business session, conducted by Worthy Master Ray Noecker, communications were read from the Red Cross extending thanks for past aid and the Blood Bank.

The charter was draped in memory of deceased member John Lanman. The May meeting will be the annual meeting by County Deputy Ernest Bidwell. The first degree will be exemplified by the officers. The baking and sewing contests will also be held under the direction of the chairman of Women's Activities, Mrs. Joseph Peters.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Waites, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Beers and Mr. and Mrs. John Brinker will serve on the May committee.

Silver Star Certificates were presented by Carl Bennett to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scothorn and Mrs. David Hedges for 25 years continuous membership in the Grange.

Refreshments were served in the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scothorn and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Berger.
